Motorized Unit From North In Polish Capital

Claim Southern Army Within 12 Miles Of City In Swift Advance; Roads Jammed With Civilians In Mass Evacuation From Capital.

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—The German supreme high command announced today that a German army unit forced an entry into Warsaw at 5:15 p. m. (11:15 a. m. EST).

The announcement called the unit armored troops (presumably an armored car formation).

It was further announced that other troops, forging rapidly ahead, had reached Nadarzyn, 12 miles southwest of the Polish capital.

(This would indicate that the entry had been made by the German column which has been driving on Warsaw from the north.)

Earlier the German army declared today that three of its columns were closing in on Warsaw from the north, west and southwest and that at least one was within artillery range of the Polish capital..

The report of the army of the east, however, did not specify which of the three converging forces was in position to bombard Warsaw.

An afternoon communique said the column advancing from the southwest was making rapid progress and had captured the town of Mszczonow, about 25 miles from the capital.

An earlier communique today placed the northern German column beyond Pultusk, about 28 miles north of Warsaw. A vanguard was reported to have crossed the Narew river which flows through Pultusk and joins the Bug river about 15 miles north of Warsaw.

(The Bug and Vistula rivers, which draw an east-west line ranging from 10 to 20 miles north of Warsaw, have been indicated as the site for the main Polish defense of the capital.

(The Warsaw radio broadcast today that the Polish retreat so far has been "for strategic reasons" and that "the Polish army will yet start its offensive.")

The afternoon communique still reported German territory had not been invaded by Polish air forces, but acknowledged that two German planes were shot down over Polish soil and one was missing.

"In the North Sea and Baltic," the communique added, "the navy conducted a number of mine investigations. Units of a minesweeping flotilla shelled a Polish coastal battery which returned the fire without success.

"The fourth Polish submarine has been destroyed."

(Jane's "Fighting Ships," authoritative register of naval vessels, lists only five Polish submarines.)

Officials apparently were barred from disclosing just what regions of the west were being cleared but there was no ban on mentioning such places as could be learned privately.

France, Britain Girding for 'Big Push'

Major Western Drive Imminent, Paris Says

Artillery, Machine Guns Brought Into Use On Both Sides; Germans Driven From Points Near Siegfried Line.

(By International News Service)

PARIS—Fresh advances at several points on the German frontier were announced today in French official bulletin No. 9.

"We have been able to effect local progress varying in importance, but appreciably improving at certain points the conditions of our advance," the communique said.

This advance, apparently unstemmed since it began on Monday in the hilly and wooded section beyond the Maginot line in the Saarland, was made in spite of the arrival of German reinforcements on the opposite side.

While artillery, machine-guns, and tanks have been brought into play on both sides, the French still are probing for major spots of weakness in the German west wall, but a major offensive is believed to be imminent.

Plugging of the possible gap in the center of the German lines was revealed last night in communique No. 8:

"The front between the Rhine and Moselle rivers is being reinforced opposite us. The arrival of new forces from the interior of Germany is discerned."

Great success has attended the French army's initial "feeling-out" movements, which have carried columns deep into Germany in the vicinity of Saar-Brucken, French newspapers agreed today, in authoritative government-censored articles.

British Troops There.

Now that British troops are going into the lines, and other preparatory steps have been taken, the news-hungry French public was informed that a large-scale campaign may be expected soon.

To this end, Le Journal said, "Our air force photographed all the enemy's defense lines."

Driving Germans from strong positions before the Limes-Siegfried line, the press said, French troops were reported to have advanced into the Bienwald forest.

Premier Edouard Daladier today was reported forming a war cabinet, following talks with former Premier Edouard Herriot.

The new cabinet, it was expected, will include many technical experts, and fewer politicians.

On Germany's other front, it was asserted here, Poland has barely begun to fight.

Mme. Genevieve Tabouis, writer for L'Oeuvre, said Poland now is defending herself with only 15 army divisions, and another 40 are being prepared.

Paris went through another

SEARING HEAT SETS RECORD

Mercury Rockets to 95, New High for Year; Little Hope for Relief Until Sunday.

Mansfield had its hottest day of the summer Thursday when the mercury rocketed to 95 degrees as a record September heat wave sent the temperature past 100 at several midwestern points.

There is little hope of relief from the searing heat before Sunday, the weatherman said today. He forecast fair and continued warm tonight and Saturday. Showers are expected to rout the heat by Sunday afternoon.

The mercury got an early start in its climb today in Mansfield, with a reading of 90 at noon. The lowest last night was 73 and the 24-hour average was 84 degrees, 16 above normal.

The heat yesterday broke records for the date in several Ohio cities and Toledo had 99, reported to be an all-time high there.

Van Wert, in the northwestern part of the state, had 102 for the highest in Ohio. Springfield was close behind with an official 101.

The heat was general throughout the middlewest and by today it was expected to spread over the eastern part of the nation. It was 100 in Chicago and 102 in Kansas City yesterday.

NAZI SHIP SINKS

Believed Sent to Bottom by Mine; 7 Die, 7 Saved.

COPENHAGEN —(AP)— Seven members of the crew of the German steamer Helfried Bismarck were killed today when an explosion sank the ship south of Ore Sound, between the island of Sjaelland and Sweden.

Survivors said they believed the vessel, which went down in a few minutes, had struck a mine. Seven were rescued.

The vessel was loaded with saltpeter.

Earlier, an unidentified steamer was blown up off the Danish island of Aeroe, south of Funen. Observers said they believed that the ship was a German freighter and that all of the crew perished.

SHIP TORPEDOED

44 of British Vessel's Crew Saved By Nearby Steamer.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Radiomarine Corp., today reported a radio saying the "steamer Jeanjadot advises saved crew 44 men of SS Regent Tiger British torpedoed by submarine."

Lloyd's register lists the ship as a British tanker of 10,176 tons.

President to Boost Army, Navy Strength

Executive Orders For Increases In U. S. Defense Forces To Follow Soon; Maps Neutrality Revision.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt today proclaimed a state of limited national emergency.

The action was taken to strengthen United States neutrality in the European war and to bolster national defenses within the limits of peace time authorizations.

The president will follow the proclamation within the next few hours by executive orders by virtue of authority granted in the proclamation.

Mr. Roosevelt declared that he was acting under his emergency powers which repose in a number of statutes. He did not specify the exact laws under which his proclamation was issued.

These will:

1. Make increases in army man power within the authorized peace strength by recruiting and calling back first line reserves.

2. Make similar man power increases in navy strength within peace time authorizations.

3. Provide increases in marine corps personnel.

4. Provide government investigative agencies with broader powers to combat propaganda subversive to the U. S. form of government and to prevent episodes such as occurred in 1914 and 1915 before America entered the World war.

Mr. Roosevelt today extended the U. S. proclamation of neutrality to include the Union of South Africa.

He explained that since he issued the original neutrality proclamations this government has been informed that South Africa has declared a state of war with Germany.

Extension of the neutrality proclamation to cover Canada has been prepared Mr. Roosevelt said, but will not be proclaimed until and unless the Canadian parliament takes final action in declaring a state of war.

It was made clear that the proclamation of limited emergency does not contemplate putting either the national defenses or the national economy on a war time basis.

Mr. Roosevelt said it could be assumed that when—not if—he calls congress into special session he will ask it to repeal the mandatory embargo on shipments of arms to belligerents and little or nothing else.

Mr. Roosevelt explaining the executive orders which he said will be forthcoming shortly, said that the authorized peace time strength of the army is 280,000 men.

The army now is materially below this strength. The executive order will enable the president to order it to increase its strength a little but not to a point anywhere near the 280,000 peace authorization, he said.

The object, the president said, is to fill in the chinks in the military establishment, giving the army enough manpower to man certain defenses such as Panama, Puerto Rico, and other points.

ACTS TO STEM SURGING PRICES

Government Takes Hand to Halt Profiteering; Says Sudden Price Hike Unjustified.

The federal government today stepped into the "war buying" situation and prepared to take action that will prevent profiteering. At the same time officials assured housewives that there was ample reserve supplies of foodstuffs and no excuse could be offered for any sharp increase in prices.

Government executives in Washington said that some increase in living costs might be expected as a result of the war but that the sudden upsurge in prices is unjustified.

They point especially to sugar prices which have risen more than a cent a pound. Experts said the increase was without reason.

Officials added that there was no danger that either war hysteria or monopolistic control would send the price of sugar to the heights of 1918-19, when it was rationed out to the public at 30 cents a pound. Before this would be permitted, they said, the mar-

SURVIVORS WAIT

Americans on Athenia Demand Naval Escort to N. Y.

GALWAY, Eire—(U.P.)—American survivors of the Athenia sinking today waited impatiently for news as to how they would be repatriated.

Upon hearing that American Athenia survivors at Glasgow had demanded a naval convoy to New York the refugees here said it would be a "good idea."

Survivors at the Great Southern hotel who expressed opinions included Charles Cotterman of 200 Collingwood ave., Dayton, O., who said:

"I don't know what arrangements are being made but I certainly would appreciate a naval escort."

It was estimated that about 300 refugees remain in Galway awaiting official arrangements for their repatriation.

STAY AT CANNES

Duke, Duchess of Windsor Delay Departure For England.

CANNES, France—(INS)—Departure of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor for England, previously scheduled for today, has been postponed, members of their entourage announced this afternoon.

No decision has been reached as to when the couple will leave, it was stated, but it was believed their departure is "imminent."

WITH NAZI ARMY: Poland's Waterloo Near, Eyewitness Says

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following dispatch was received today from Pierre J. Huss, chief of the International News Service Berlin Bureau, who flew to the Polish front in a German bombing plane yesterday.)

By PIERRE J. HUSS, INS Staff Correspondent.

WITH THE GERMAN ARMIES IN POLAND—A personal inspection tour to a point forty miles deep in the Polish Corridor and southward beyond Bromberg behind the German military steamroller revealed to this correspondent today that Poland's military Waterloo is very near.

The expedition took me to southern key points of the iron German ring where 40,000 Poles have been taken prisoner and throughout the area where military operations were carried on under the watchful eye of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, supreme commander of the German armies.

To a neutral observer like myself, it became painfully obvious while traveling in an army bus from the German field frontier—where incidentally Hitler's private plane stood along the route from Nakel to Bromberg—that the Polish soldiers have fought in retreat with singular and often savage fury.

But as a military machine, they appeared to lack everything that goes into making it, particularly with regard to modern equipment.

All evidence points to the probability that the German general staff is fully aware of the internal weaknesses and defects of the Pol-

LONDON: Discontent Rampant Among Nazi Troops, British Say

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Bitter discontent among German soldiers quartered in the Siegfried line because of miserable living conditions was alleged by the British government today in an announcement presumably based upon first-hand reports from the great reich fortifications.

"Reports are coming in of criticisms by German soldiers stationed on the Siegfried line," a communique issued by the ministry of information declared.

"The complaints are as follows:

"First, the dugouts are crammed with munitions.

"Second, although the troops have been in the line only for a few days, ventilation is so bad that the air in the dugouts is foul.

"Third, the more heavily protected dugouts are not yet habitable. In some cases only the foundations are ready.

"Fourth, a shortage of food.

"Reports from reliable sources state that a bonus of five reichsmarks ($2.00) is being paid in Germany to anyone informing on people expressing dissatisfaction.

"It is further reported from the same source that Bavarians, though not enthusiastic about the war, and still blindly trusting in the fuehrer, appear to harbor no bitter feelings against England."

The ministry's communique, published in full detail throughout England, brought new encouragement to a nation resolved to carry

City To Give Hollywood Touch To Its First Premiere Tonight

In true Hollywood fashion—or as near to it as the city would want to come—Mansfield has its first motion picture premiere tonight for the showing of "The Rains Came," made from the best selling novel of that name by Mansfield's most famous son, Louis Bromfield.

It will be a "double premiere" for the picture will be shown simultaneously at both the Ohio and Madison theaters.

Bromfield will be presented from the stage of both theaters before the picture is shown.

In all, more than 3,200 persons will see the picture here tonight. Both theaters have been sold out, and the crowds will enter under the glare of spotlights at both theaters.

Flags flew throughout the downtown section today, and posters announced to one and all that "The Rains Came" would have its premiere here tonight.

Before the premiere — scheduled for 8:30 p. m.—Bromfield will be the honor guest at a dinner arranged by friends at the Hotel Mansfield-Leland at 6 p. m., at which 275 will turn out to pay tribute to the author.

ROME: Mussolini Plans New Peace Attempts, Italy Indicates

(By United Press)

ROME—Reports increased today that another Italian peace attempt will be made soon.

They apparently were based on:

1. Press dispatches indicating that Warsaw may fall within the next few days.

2. Belief in usually well-informed circles that if an effort toward peace were made, it would come immediately following the fall of Warsaw.

3. Persistent reports during the last few days that Premier Benito Mussolini may make an important speech this week-end.

Such an effort, according to usually well-informed circles, would be aimed at bringing Britain, France, Germany and Italy to a four-power conference.

Exactly how such an offer would be made has not yet been defined, although it was pointed out that Mussolini would seem the logical man to undertake it since he has been praised by both England and France for previous peace efforts.

On the other hand, Italian quarters were inclined to feel that Mussolini would not care to embark on another venture following the disappointing results of his first.

It was admitted that England and France were practically certain to reject any peace terms, while Poland still is fighting, but some German quarters thought the situation might be changed if Poland should be crushed and the German soldiery in Poland became a definite threat to the Balkans.

Get Early Start On Preserving

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

It's a good thing to "put up" spicy jams and jellies, preserves and pickles against a cold winter. Don't make the same old favorites each year without adding something different for a surprise. Here are some ideas, some of which may be new to you.

First, a delicious marmalade. Ginger Marmalade is made with four pounds sugar, one pint water, one ounce finely shaved ginger root, four lemons—grated rind and juice—four pounds MacIntosh apples, finely chopped. Make a syrup of the sugar and water, boiling them together three minutes. Add the remaining ingredients and cook until thick and clear. For a less tart jam reduce the amount of lemon. Seal in jelly glasses.

Grape-Orange Jelly is made with four pounds Concord grapes, one pound English walnuts, one pound seeded raisins, two whole oranges, seeded and diced; three level teaspoons dry mint, seeds from eight cardomon capsules, four blades mace. Skin grapes, saving skins and placing pulps in preserving kettle. Cook pulps 15 minutes, then strain out seeds. Add skins, nut meats, raisins, oranges, spices and sugar. Boil one to one and one-half hours or until of jam consistency. After removing from fire, add one-half bottle fruit pectin.

Venison Jelly.

Venison Jelly is made with four cups (one and three-fourths pounds) sugar, two cups (one pint) bottled grape juice, one-fourth cup apple vinegar, one-half teaspoon cloves, teaspoon cinnamon, one-half bottle fruit pectin. Measure sugar, grape juice, vinegar and spices into three-quart saucepan, and mix. (Any desired combination of spices may be used.) Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add bottle fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to full, rolling boil and boil hard for one-half minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Seal the jelly jars with paraffin at once.

Grape Chutney, a palate pleaser, is easy to make. Add to each two quarts of seeded grapes two quarts chopped apples, one pound seeded and chopped raisins, seven cups brown sugar and one cup lemon juice. Mix in preserving kettle. Add a bag containing one tablespoon ground allspice, one-half teaspoon ginger, one tablespoon cloves, one stick cinnamon. Simmer slowly until about the consistency of thick sauce, then season with a tablespoon of salt and a little paprika. Seal in hot jars.

Pickled Apples require one peck apples, four pounds brown sugar, two quarts vinegar, two tablespoons whole cloves, two tablespoons whole allspice, and one piece stick cinnamon (three inches). Heat vinegar, add sugar and bag containing spices, and boil for 20 minutes. Skim. Add apples and boil slowly until tender. Place apples in hot jars, boil syrup until thick and use to fill jars. Seal.

Company Sorority Has Party for Miss Henness

Members of the Doherty sorority of the Ohio Public Service company motored to the Bemiller home in Galion yesterday evening for a dinner party honoring one of their members, Miss Josephine Henness, bride-elect of John K. Chatlain of Chicago, Ill.

A blue and yellow color scheme predominated in the decorations of the table, which was centered with a bouquet of garden flowers and lighted with tall yellow tapers. Bridge was the diversion at three tables, with prizes going to Mrs. Nellie Drake and Mrs Cecelia Frantz, who presented them to the honoree. The group gave Miss Henness a shower of kitchen gifts and a floor lamp.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Sept. 9.

A day of great activity, with thrills, adventures, romance, travel and a general state of commotion and agitation, is forecast. All spell happiness and a most benign feeling of gratification, providing a pronounced tendency to overdo in every direction is suppressed. The impulses, forces and faculties are all under rather hectic stimuli, probably causing impetuosity, violence, passion and other high-powered expressions. With restraint and prudence, all should thrive. If excess energies are centered on workaday pursuits, there would be much profit.

Those whose birthday it is will find themselves launched in a year of what is known astrologically as the "opportunity complex," with all doors open to accomplishment, and rich rewards for noble objectives and worthy aspirations. Employment, business, educational, cultural and scientific matters are under excellent auspices, but all the energies are under such high tempo that there may be regrettable side issues because of impetuous, passionate or perhaps quarrelsome indulgences. Tempestuous and reckless behavior carries penalties. Keep calm, controlled.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Lillian flashed her infectious, gamin grin at my father as she finished her outline of the "Great compromise" she had planned for him, and I was not surprised to see an answering, if reluctant, smile quirk the corners of his mouth.

"As always, dear Lillian, you are irresistible, although a great nuisance. But I agree, perforce, with your dictum. Now, if you will all go away, except Harry, I will outline what I want him to do, and then you can come back and fuss over me."

Miss Whitlock, Lillian and I were at the door before the last words were out of his mouth.

"We fly," Lillian said, "but do let Harry make you comfortable while you talk."

Chief's Disguise Removed.

Her hint was not lost upon her resourceful husband. How he managed it I do not know, but when he summoned us back into the room less than ten minutes later, my father's disguise of beard and eyebrows had been removed as well as his clothing. Clad in pajamas, he was leaning back against his pillows, patently fatigued, but not so exhausted as I had feared he would be.

"Now," Harry Underwood said, with a quizzical upward quirk of his eyebrows, "It's up to squaws! Big Chief ready to go sleep. Me," —he struck himself a resounding blow upon his chest—"I go on trail, bring back plenty men."

He strode out of the room upon the word, and my father looked affectionately after him.

"There isn't a more dependable man, or one of more ability, in all my world," he said, and Lillian glowed with pleasure.

"Thank you," she said simply, "but we mustn't waste these minutes in talk. Miss Whitlock, will you see what he needs? And then we'll go away and let you sleep, Chief, until Harry comes back."

Leave the Chief Resting.

The nurse was already at the bedside. She slipped a thermometer between his lips, then counted pulse and respiration while it registered. At the end, without comment, she gave him a pellet with a glass of water and straightened his pillows. Then, motioning to us to go out of the room, she first opened the window, then followed us out.

Immediately after swallowing the sedative or stimulant—I did not know which it was—my father had closed his eyes, following, I knew, a lifelong rule of making the most of every second in any task he had on hand. His present assignment was to rest, and he meant to work at it diligently.

Outside his room, with the door closed, I could wait no longer, but put my hand upon the nurse's arm.

Is In Good Condition.

"Tell me," I said, "how is he? His temperature and pulse and respiration—"

"All three perfectly all right," she returned quickly. "He has wonderful vitality and recuperative power. In fact, I never have seen anyone of his age who had more. But I am certainly glad he agreed to this half-hour's rest. It will mean everything to him."

"It will be nearer an hour," Lillian said, "although it would never do to tell him so. But Harry signaled me when he left that the errands he had been given would take a full hour, so we can count upon that much time for him, unless, of course, he wakens beforehand."

"I don't think he will," Miss Whitlock said confidently. "I've been watching him, and he has relaxed completely—he's more exhausted than he realizes—and he'll sleep now until he's awakened, I sure. I'll sit just outside the door. In fact, when I think he's asleep, I'll open it a crack. Then I'll be able to hear him if he wants anything."

Noel In Mary's Care.

"Noel?" I queried tentatively, and she smiled.

"Noel doesn't need anything but what he is getting, the devoted care of his wife," she said. "I can devote all my time to your father, Mrs. Graham, so if there's anything you want to do for the next hour—"

Lillian answered for me.

"There is," she said. "She's dying to see the children."

"Then there's no need for her to deny herself—or them—another minute," the nurse replied, and with Lillian at my side I hurried to the nursery.

"Don't you think," Lillian murmured as we neared it, "that as a matter of strategy you ought to go to your mother-in-law's room first? We don't want her to go into one of her offended tantrums, you know. I'll go along with you, and then in a minute you can run away to the nursery while I stick around and smooth down any stray rumpled feathers."

College Boy Reluctant At Leaving Girl

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Mine is another of those eternal triangles. Two of us are in love with the same girl. We all graduated from high school last June, and this other chap and I took her to all the school dances, concerts, plays, and other social activities in the school.

I'm to enter college this fall, but my rival was lucky enough to get a job and has given up the college idea. Now if I go away, I'm afraid it will be a case of "out of sight, out of mind," and the other fellow will get the girl. How can I keep this girl interested in me? Can you suggest something I can give her to remember me by — a ring, perhaps — not a diamond, of course — or some other gift which she can keep to remind her of me? My folks won't hear of quitting college. We're all 17 and 18.

JEALOUS

You're very frank about admitting you're jealous of this other fellow. But I can't see why you, on the way to a university career, should want to bind this girl to you by keeping her from receiving the attention of the rival. It seems to me, if you give her a ring (although it's not a diamond), you would put yourself in a false position.

If you want to give her something to remember you by, why not give her a writing portfolio, and tell her you hope it will suggest that she will sometimes write you a letter.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

There's a certain young man who keeps on calling me up for dates. I go with him sometimes, but at other times I don't care to go. Please give me a polite way of refusing him without offending. I don't want to lose his friendship.

ONE OF THE GIRLS

You can always plead an old engagement which has slipped your memory. Or you can have out of town friends coming. Also you may have some class or club work for that particular evening. While such excuses may be white lies, they will be forgiven, it seems to me, because they are told to spare someone's feelings.

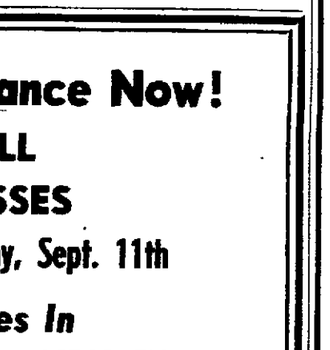
"The Authority on Authorities"

SQUEEZE VARIATIONS

THOUGH THERE are many varieties of squeezes, all of them embody the principle that a particular player is obliged to make a discard which will unguard a particular suit, or another which will build up a card in some other suit.

Most of them come on the 11th trick, but some of them occur a trick or two earlier, and some of them even consist of a series of one squeeze after another.

The simplest departure from the standard squeeze patterns comes when the squeeze is merely on a trick earlier than the 11th.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable).

South sprang a neat squeeze here to make 6-Diamonds doubled. He opened with 1-Diamond, West bid 1-Spade, North 2-No Trumps because he was vulnerable and preferred that to doubling a not-vulnerable pair. South followed with 3-Diamonds, North 4-Diamonds and South tried 6-Diamonds, which West doubled.

West led the diamond A, then another diamond to the K. South cashed a third diamond, took in two high clubs, then made a Vienna coup to build a squeeze by taking the heart A, thus setting up West's two honors. Next he took the club Q and led two more diamonds. When the last was played, he also held three hearts and a spade. Dummy had his four spades and the diamond J.

Unfortunate West had to discard either his heart K, making dummy's J good, or one of his remaining four spades, setting up dummy's fourth one. This was a true forward squeeze on a trick earlier than the usual 11th one.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable).

If North rebids spades, then No Trump, and South nevertheless persists with his suits into 5-Diamonds, what should West lead?

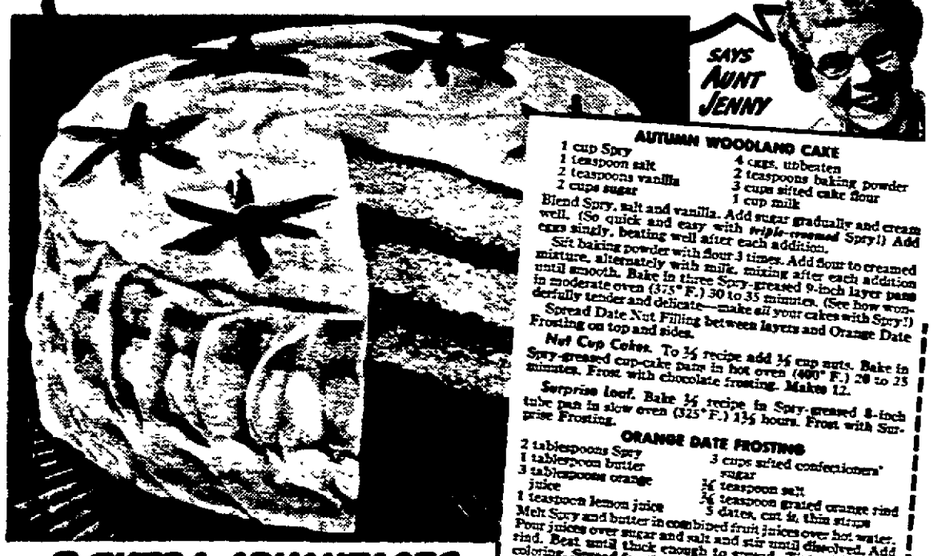
IT'S CAKE TIME, FOLKS

TRY THIS DANDY RECIPE THAT MAKES 3 DIFFERENT CAKES



AUTUMN WOODLAND CAKE

1 cup Spry
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups sugar
4 eggs, unbeaten
2 teaspoons baking powder
3 cups sifted cake flour
1 cup milk

Blend Spry, salt and vanilla. Add sugar gradually and cream well. (So quick and easy with triple-creamed Spry!) Add eggs singly, beating well after each addition.

Sift baking powder with flour 3 times. Add flour to creamed mixture, alternately with milk, mixing after each addition until smooth. Bake in three Spry-greased 9-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375° F.) 30 to 35 minutes. (See how wonderfully tender and delicate—make all your cakes with Spry!)

Spread Date Nut Filling between layers and Orange Date Frosting on top and sides.

Nut Cup Cakes. To ⅓ recipe add ⅓ cup nuts. Bake in Spry-greased cup-cake pans in hot oven (400° F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Frost with chocolate frosting. Makes 12.

Surprise loaf. Bake ⅓ recipe in Spry-greased 8-inch tube pan in slow oven (325° F.) 1¼ hours. Frost with Surprise Frosting.

ORANGE DATE FROSTING

2 tablespoons Spry
1 tablespoon butter
3 tablespoons orange juice
1 teaspoon lemon juice
3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon grated orange rind
5 dates, cut fine, thin strips

Melt Spry and butter in combined fruit juices over hot water. Pour juices over sugar and salt and stir until dissolved. Add rind. Beat until thick enough to spread. Tint with yellow coloring. Spread frosting on top and sides of cake. Arrange dates (use raisins if preferred) on top to resemble flowers.

Surprise Frosting. Substitute ¼ cup top milk for fruit juices and 1 teaspoon vanilla for orange rind. Spread ¼ cup peanut butter on top and sides of Surprise Loaf and cover with frosting.

DATE NUT FILLING

1½ cups dates, prunes or apricots, cut
½ cup sugar
½ cup water
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup nuts, cut

Cook dates, sugar and water over direct heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from fire and add butter, lemon juice and nuts. Cool.

(All measurements in these recipes are level)

3 EXTRA ADVANTAGES AND ONLY Spry GIVES ALL THREE

"MAKE one of these cakes today, folks," says Aunt Jenny. "They're wonderful, all three! An' mixed so quick. Spry creams faster.

"Spry stays fresh longer, too. No 'off-flavor' in tender, flaky Spry crust. Every crumb is pure goodness. An' no unpleasant 'fryin' odor' when you fry with Spry. It's purer. Get Spry, the only shortenin' that gives all three of these advantages. Now in handy new hinge-top can."

Stars In 'The Rains Came' Which Has Premiere Here Tonight

THEATERS

WITH MOST of the film celebs in Europe stampeding to get onto ships headed for the U S A, Cowboy Gene Autry supplied a note of contrast. After Republic films had moved heaven and earth to get him reservations, he refused to go without his horse, Champ. He compromised by moving from the Savoy hotel in London to a small town in the suburbs, and finally sailed, accompanied by his horse. Reports of Autry's reception abroad, especially in Ireland, are eye-openers to Hollywood. The star, whose pictures are almost unknown to the sophisticates in the film capital, broke all records to do $28,000 in one day at the Theater Royal in Dublin He topped the record of Gracie Field's, England's Number 1 comedian, by $4,000.

Crosby's New Picture.

The Madison theater, which supplements the Ohio theater tonight with the premiere of "The Rains Came," has a print of the picture only for tonight Starting tomorrow that theater will present Bing Crosby's latest contribution to the entertainment world. He will be seen in "The Star Maker" which is based on the life of Gus Edwards, the little impressario of the vaudeville circuits who has discovered more juvenile talent and launched more careers than any other man in the American theater. George Jessel, Eddie Cantor and Walter Winchell were among his earlier proteges. He also wrote some of the great popular songs of the past three decades, among them "School Days" and "In My Merry Olds Mobile." Crosby has the support of Louise Campbell, Linda Ware, Ned Sparks and Walter Damrosch.

Premiere Starts Run.

The premiere tonight of "The Rains Came" at the Ohio theater, ushers in a week's engagement of that picture The Bromfield story in picture form, will be the attraction throughout the week, starting tonight and running through next Friday

New Problem for Hoppy.

An outlaw and an accomplice who can make up to look exactly like him, provide the latest problem for Hopalong Cassidy and his buddies Windy and Lucky in "Silver On The Sage," which is being shown at the Ritz. When the outlaw gets into trouble his double has been somewhere else at the same time and provides the perfect alibi William Boyd is seen in his familiar role of Hoppy. Jane Withers finds herself a boy friend, a very young one in "Boy Friend," the little star's last picture Arleen Whelan and Richard Bond supply romance.

Punishment for Kay.

Kay Frances' "punishment picture," in which her studio put her in a gangster picture for disciplinary measures, provides Humphrey Bogart, bad man of the screen, his most beautiful and talented leading woman. "King of The Underworld" finds these two brought together but fighting for their own ideas of happiness. Tex Fletcher, a new "singing cowboy" is also an attraction at the Majestic, appearing in "Six Gun Rhythm."

A Different Theme.

Every once in a while there is a convict theme in pictures that is different and "Blind Alley" is one of them The story holds the audience in suspense from the beginning and is a fascinating study of "what makes the wheels go round" in a killer's mind. Chester Morris, Ralph Bellamy, Ann Dvorak are starred in it A comedy thriller "For Love or Money," rounds out the bill.

GET ROAD FUNDS

County's 18 Townships Receive $400 Each in Gas Tax Revenues.

Richland county's 18 townships receive $7,200, or $400 each, in gasoline tax revenues from the state today to use for making road repairs.

Distribution of funds to townships is made every two or three months and each of them receives from $2,000 to $2,200 a year from the gasoline tax for roads, Deputy Auditor Arthur S Beck said

WAR-FLAVORED STOCKS PACE BRISK MARKET

Steels, Aircrafts and Motors in Forefront of Push; Up 4 Points or More.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks with a war flavor hit the high spots in today's market as traders who cashed in yesterday returned for large commitments.

Gains ran to 4 or more points at the best. There were occasional profit-taking let-downs. Blocks of 1,000 to 5,000 changed hands during intermittent buying waves. Top quotations were well maintained.

Steels, aircrafts and motors were in the forefront of the push, with rails, coppers, mail orders, oils and chemicals trailing. A number of issues, including the amusement group, failed to join the parade. The latter was affected by prospects of dwindling moving picture sales abroad.

Some of the early bulge in stocks was attributed to the move for a special session of congress, with Sept. 18 mentioned, for the purpose of amending the neutrality act which would permit belligerents to do business with this country on a "cash-and-carry" basis.

Prominent share gainers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, U. S. Rubber, Anaconda, DuPont, Allied Chemical, N. Y. Central, American Telephone, Fajardo Sugar and Montgomery Ward.

Further talk of peace being engineered abroad after the Germans conquer Poland served to temper market enthusiasm a bit. Many Wall street observers, though, held the view that it would be a long drawn-out war.

Foreign enquiries for steel, aircraft, consumers goods and other equipment were reported mounting. A boost in steel export prices was seen as an indicator. Dealings in the textile markets were the largest in 20 years. Motor production continued to expand.

Dun and Bradstreet estimated this week's consumer spending topped the corresponding period last year by 6 to 11 per cent for the country as a whole.

The public, the review said, "apparently found the outbreak of hostilities no reason to defer purchases of fall articles."

Youth Meeting—The Richland County Youth Cooperative meets Monday evening at Union high school with the new board of recreation assisted by Miss Frances Baker in charge.

Receives Permit—A building permit for the construction of a $6,200 residence at 20 Summit street, was issued at city hall yesterday to L. C. Anderson, 116 Sherman avenue.

Bitten By Dog—Police yesterday ordered Hugh Green, 205 North Adams street, to tie up his dog after Miss Julia Moore, 247½ North Main street, reported that she had been bitten by the animal.

Put Out Grass Fire—City firemen were called to Bartley avenue and Forrest street at 2 p. m. yesterday to extinguish a grass fire which they said was started by a bonfire.

Offers Property—A property on West Sixth street will go on the auction block Saturday morning at sheriff's sale at the courthouse on a $3,646 foreclosure judgment obtained by B. F. Lindsley against Millicent J. Hillman and others. The property is valued at $2,100.

Driver Fined — Convicted in municipal court this morning on a charge of careless and reckless driving, Alfred Diemer, 126 Stewart avenue, was fined $10 and costs. Charges were filed by C. C. Ruppert, 115 Sycamore street, who accused Diemer of deliberately ramming his car Wednesday at East Third and North Foster streets.

Veterans Picnic—Members of Luther Swigart chapter, Rainbow Veterans association, will hold a picnic Sunday at the Andrew Callahan farm southeast of Mansfield. Rainbow markers will be posted along the road through Little Washington to the farm. The committee in charge includes H. J. SirLouis, F. E. Ral

SELECT STAFF OF 33 FOR HIGH SCHOOL PAPER

'Hyphonerian' Advisers Ready for New Term; First Issue Due on Sept. 29.

Thirty-three Senior high school students today were named to the editorial and business staffs of "The Hyphonerian," student newspaper, for the new school year by the faculty advisers.

Robert Sheriff was named editor, and Robert Henry, assistant editor, for the first semester. Sheriff during the last half of the 1938-39 school year served as assistant editor.

The paper which is usually published every two weeks during the school year is scheduled to make its 1939-40 debut on Sept. 29.

Others on the editorial staff are, Harold Williams, sports editor, Virginia Fairman, feature editor; William Houston, exchange editor; Marshall Smith, Willard Stuckey, Richard Weaver and Richard White, sports staff, and Edward Eisele, Margaret Oswalt, Janet Baughman, Kenton Dye, Miriam Garn, Thelma Patterson, Betty Reese, David Gibson, Elizabeth Ann Cave, Mary Beer, Clara Beer, Patty Bancroft, Helen Hartman, George Gazdak, Ruth Vrbanac, Winifred Lee, Marjorie Woodard, Vivian Hunt and Mildred Clark, reporters.

Those on the business staff are Fred Lavender, manager, Robert Houlette, assistant manager, and Robert Tawse, William Seiler and Myron Miller. Miss Bertha Patterson is editorial adviser and V. C. Ketner, business adviser.

The first social activity of the year for high school students will be a skating party Sept. 22 at the Coliseum under sponsorship of the 11-A class. The affair, to be known as a "Skaters Frolic," was originally scheduled to be held in the spring Richard Sparks, class president, is in charge of arrangements

Thwarting Raids

No more complete blackouts in Holland during the European conflict. For an "invisible light" which sends a narrow light beam a distance of four miles will enable the Dutch to make their way about the cities without difficulty. The light is invisible from any height of more than 80 yards above the earth.

HEALTH STAFF GOES BACK TO CLASSES, TOO

School Opening Means Start of Examinations of Pupils, Other Health Work.

The re-opening of city and county schools this week meant back to classrooms for seven nurses and two physicians in the public health department.

Their return was not for studies but to make school inspections, examine pupils and to conduct other health work incidental to the department's communicable disease control program.

Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner said nurses already have visited rural schools throughout the county and distributed charts for recording height and weight.

In the city schools nurses have begun their daily calls for the exclusion of contagion from the schools and to detect illness among the school children. This program will continue throughout the school term.

Inspect Buildings.

Sanitary inspections which will be conducted by D. P. Griffin, sanitary engineer of the health department, will include buildings, toilet and water facilities and are expected to get under way next week.

Reports of the conditions together with recommendations for alterations if necessary will be submitted to the school boards in the various school districts. Similar inspections in city schools are also planned but at a later date, Dr. Rehder said.

Health department physicians also were engaged in making physical examinations of all students in schools throughout the county participating in athletics. For the first time, the commissioner said, the department is also examining athletes at the Mansfield high school.

Work of examining children in the first, third and fifth grades, undertaken annually and consisting of inspection of vision, hearing, teeth and other physical defects will be conducted later during the school term, Dr. Rehder said.

CRESTLINE—A daughter was born Wednesday night at Emergency hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hornnig of Lincoln Way east.

PLANET WEIGHT RATIO SCALED

PHILADELPHIA—(U.P.)—If you would like to know what your weight would be on the various planets of the solar system, just step on the scales at the Franklin Institute.

The weighing machines have been especially constructed to show the variance in the weight of a person on the earth and the other planets.

For instance, a person here weighing 105 pounds would scale 2,916 pounds on the sun; and only 1.6 ounces on the asteroid Eros. Weights for the same person elsewhere would be: Moon, 17 pounds; Mars, 41, and Jupiter, 263.

NAZI SOLDIERS ENTER WARSAW IN SWIFT PUSH

friends of civilians in the west indicated that such cities as Saarbruecken, Trier, Aachen (Aix-La-Chapelle), Bonn and Karlsruhe were on the move.

Although Great Britain and France declared war on Germany five days ago there still was no word in Berlin of any action on the French frontier. Officials said that of course Germany didn't propose to have noncombatants mowed down by shellfire in case major operations began in the west.

(Paris dispatches said the French army was fighting its way into German forestlands in preparation for a joint British-French offensive against the Siegfried line.)

Push Three Fronts.

Dispatches from the eastern front indicated that the offensive against the Polish capital had taken the form of three separate thrusts from north, south and west with the force from the north as the closest threat.

This morning's communique offered but little new information in the drive against Warsaw from the north but said German troops had reached a point 38 miles west of the capital. (Rawa, the most advanced point gained in these operations from the west, actually is southwest of Warsaw.)

Poznan was half encircled by occupation of territory to its north and south and the Poles were said to have been "thrown back" at Lodz, a major city 70 miles southwest of Warsaw. The communique said Lodz "was reached at the southeast yesterday afternoon."

In southern Poland, east of Krakow and the upper reaches of the Vistula river, the German attack by way of Tarnow toward the San river was reported "progressing smoothly."

The Poles also were reported "thrust back to the Vistula in heavy fighting in the Lysa Gora mountains."

Fight In Streets.

The communique told of German pacification of Pultusk after street fighting and of a crossing of the Narew river at that point, about 8 miles from the northern fringe of Warsaw.

"The highways on which the Poles are retreating are clogged and impassable," the communique said. A tank attack by Polish cavalry on Germans advancing on Lomsa, 7 miles northeast of Warsaw, was "shattered in an air raid."

Of other aerial operations, the communique said, "the Vistula crossing south of Warsaw was so effectively destroyed that the crossing of retreating Polish army columns was held up everywhere and in many places rendered impassable.

"Fliers successfully attacked bridges in Warsaw. Warsaw is being hurriedly evacuated."

Much territory ahead of the three-pronged advance still lay in Polish hands but the German command was confident the line would be straightened out and that the fall of Warsaw was inevitable.

(There had been no direct communication from the Associated Press correspondent at Warsaw since 12:10 p. m., (6:10 a. m. EST) Wednesday. It was believed that the Warsaw radio station had been abandoned, with the station at Lwow the only active transmitter still in Polish hands.)

Poles Won't Surrender, Says Warsaw Broadcast.

BUDAPEST—(AP)—The Warsaw radio, silent yesterday, today broadcast a statement that "the Polish army will yet start its offensive.

"The present retreat is for strategic reasons," the announcement declared.

"The war will continue a long time. The Poles will not capitulate.

"We will fight to the finish. The Polish air fleet is intact. The world will understand this before long."

The broadcast asserted that the Germans had captured only 1,500 Poles in the first week of war and that "the number of killed and wounded is very small."

(The German high command reported yesterday in Berlin that 25,000 Polish prisoners had been taken.)

The broadcaster appealed to all citizens to help fortify Warsaw and declared it would be defended the way Madrid was defended by the Spanish republic.

(Madrid, capital of Republican Spain, was besieged by the nationalists for more than two years and its fall coincided with the end of the Spanish civil war.)

(The Warsaw radio was silent throughout Thursday and the station at Lwow (Lemberg) apparently was the only one in Poland functioning.)

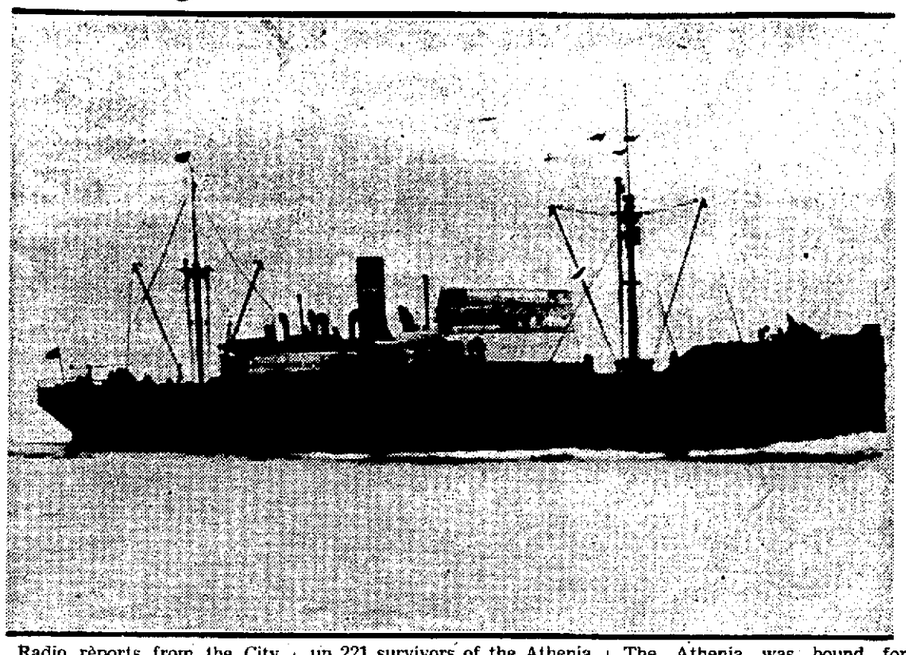
GIVES REPORT

GALION—Marion I. White, exalted ruler of Galion lodge No. 1191, B. P. O. Elks, gave a report on the national convention which was held recently at St. Louis when the regular lodge meeting was held Thursday night.

Reports of the Ohio state Elks' convention held recently at Sandusky and of the family picnic sponsored by the Galion lodge, two recent events, were given by the lodge secretary, Harry Smart.

Announcement was made that inspection of Galion lodge will be held on Oct. 26.

Brings 221 Athenia Victims to Canada



Radio reports from the City of Flint (above) indicated the American freighter had picked up 221 survivors of the Athenia disaster and was sailing directly to Halifax, Nova Scotia, where it is due to arrive Saturday. The Athenia was bound for Canada, loaded with war refugees, when she was sunk by a German submarine's torpedo.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace blamed the general increases on "middlemen" and asked the department of justice to study methods of preventing profiteering. Farmers, he said, have not benefited by the increased cost to consumers.

In Chicago, the Associated Press reported, however, that the war boom in commodity prices has increased the potential value of principal farm products by at least $1,000,000,000.

Grains, livestock and produce have appreciated in value as the result of the sensational upward swing of prices the last few days, dispatches said. In most cases prices are higher than they have been in more than a year.

The most sensational price upturn has occurred in the corn market where values have appreciated 39 per cent. Wheat was up 30 per cent, hogs 30 per cent, sugar 39 per cent, cattle 14, lambs 12, butter 8, and eggs 7 per cent.

While the frantic buying continued in Mansfield at steadily advancing prices wholesalers informed local housewives that there was little danger of a "shortage" of any foodstuffs here.

It was generally agreed that when "war scare" purchasing is abandoned prices would return to normal unless there is profiteering.

In Washington President Roosevelt today assured the public that there will be no repetition of wartime food profiteering such as that which boomed the cost of living in 1917 and 1918.

He said that although the prices of foodstuffs may be on the rise these prices will not go through the roof.

Mr. Roosevelt said that there is no conceivable possibility of an actual shortage of foodstuffs in this country.

He said that the government must do its best to prevent the people from becoming excited about a situation which does not exist.

The real fact of the food situation, Mr. Roosevelt said is that there is an actual surplus of all food stuffs and there is no conceivable shortage of essential commodities.

HITS HIGHWAYS

Wartime Price Increases To Curb Ohio Road Programs.

COLUMBUS —(AP)—Curtailment of Ohio's highway construction program was seen today by Col. Robert S. Beightler, state highway director, as the result of wartime price increases for steel, oil, asphalt and other materials.

Beightler said that early deliveries of steel already had become uncertain and declared price advances on materials would result in corresponding cuts in the work program.

TRUCK HITS BUS

One Killed as Passenger Vehicle Turns Over In Flames.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. — (U.P.) — One person was killed and twenty others injured early today when a greyhound lines bus was hit by a truck and burst into flames after overturning on U. S. highway 41, four miles north of here.

REGISTRATION TO CLOSE OCT. 9

Election Board Expects Most of 4,000 Voters Dropped This Year to Qualify.

Registration of voters for the November election was under way today and before the period closes Oct. 9 board of elections officials expect a majority of the 4,000 voters who were dropped from the lists last winter to regain their eligibility by registering or transferring.

There are approximately 16,000 registered voters now in Mansfield, far below the peak of 19,500 reached before the general election nearly a year ago. The decrease is due to the disqualifying of voters several months ago because of failure to transfer or to vote in two consecutive general elections.

To regain their voting privilege, Mansfielders need only to register or report a change of address to the board of elections in the courthouse by Oct. 9, the deadline.

Registration is required of persons who have moved to the city since the last election, reached the legal voting age since then or will before Nov. 7, and those who failed to vote at the last two general elections. Women who have been married since they last voted also must re-register.

BOY GETS 1ST DEER QUICKLY

COALINGA, Cal.—(U.P.)—"Dad" Schoonover, took his 14-year-old son Vergal P. on a deer hunting exhibition. At the first crack of the lad's rifle in a running shot he brought down a 130-pound Pacific buck. "Dad" returned home filled with pride but with no deer of his own.

HOPES TO SPAN SIMPSON DESERT

SYDNEY, N. S. W.—(U.P.)—A small party this summer will carry out a scientific investigation of the Simpson Desert, at the southern end of the Northern Territory.

The Simpson Desert, which is 56,000 square miles in area, is said to have been crossed only once before by a white man, who was accompanied by an aboriginal.

The party will take 17 camels, 7 of them to carry 224 gallons of water, to cross a parched stretch of 250 miles.

NUDISTS' CAMPS NAMED

LOS ANGELES—(U.P.)—If efforts of county authorities to abolish nudist colonies succeed, some charming names will go off the county map. The present nudist colonies are known as Fraternity Elysia, Land of Moo and Shangrila.

'SIGHT-SAVING' CLASS FORMED

HOUSTON, Tex.—(U.P.)—A "sight-saving" class for students whose vision is badly impaired will be opened in Houston public schools this fall.

Children whose eyesight is poor will receive instruction by a special teacher in a special room. Courses will range from primary grades through high school and most of the instruction will be verbal, Supt. E. E. Oberholzer said.

HALVE HOLE-IN-ONE

LONDON—(U.P.)—A world golfing record was created by two brothers, E. B. Vaughan and C. Vaughan, on their home course at Crichel Park, near Wimborne, when they halved a hole in one. Both brothers are re-tired middle-aged business men and ardent golfers.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1939

It's probably truer now than it was last time, that Germany "can win battles but not a war."

When even one great nation devotes its energies to preparing for war all nations must keep ready for war.

Word comes that a new Canadian prison has air-conditioning, private baths, indirect lighting and a sun deck—but it seems to lack the walk-away facilities of our own London prison farm.

Time to Discard Partisan Ideas

UNDER direction of President Roosevelt an elaborate program, intended to clarify the position of the United States as to the present European war, is being worked out in Washington.

It has been made quite clear that predominant sentiment in this country is strongly against United States participation in this war and it is the expressed belief of President Roosevelt that such a catastrophe can be avoided.

That, however, is a matter of conjecture rather than certainty—and it becomes immediately evident that in a situation such as this the best thought of the country should be devoted to solution of various problems that are already disturbing the administration and which will continue to develop until peace is again restored to Europe.

President Roosevelt recently addressed "the whole of America," and it is the "whole of America" that is deeply concerned with what is now being done, and what will be done later, in keeping the United States out of war.

This is not a time for recollection of partisan differences or intra-party controversies. It is a time when all American citizens should be judged only as to their competency and willingness to serve in any capacity in which they have evidenced fitness.

A suggestion has already been made that formation of a coalition committee, with which the president could consult on all grave problems, would bring a feeling of greater public confidence than is possible under what is regarded as partisan handling of national affairs.

For example, there is former President Herbert Hoover, who is probably more familiar with many phases of the World war than any other living American, and whose counsel could be made of great value during the coming months.

Problems involving neutrality, with probability of changes in present neutrality laws, should be worked out in total disregard of politics or partisan viewpoints. The best that America has in statesmanship, diplomacy and sound judgment should be called to the task of charting this nation's course through the perils that lie ahead.

Others have expressed admiration for an incoming view of the Statue of Liberty, but Americans now on returning ships will probably be even more impressed.

Give Every Child a Fair Chance

MANSFIELD is today receiving national recognition as a result of the honor accorded it in being chosen, with New York, for the world premiere of "The Rains Came," heralded as among the most spectacular motion pictures ever produced.

In the background of thought, as this is being considered, is an idea that there is something more significant about this whole thing than the mere fact that a great motion picture found its inspiration in a story written by a Mansfield-born author.

The thought that comes, as Louis Bromfield and his successful writing career is brought to mind by the events of today, is that Mansfield, and its schools, offer just as great opportunities for a start on the road to successful achievement in any field of activity as can be found anywhere in the United States—that while heredity and environment each plays a part, it is, after all, individual ambition, energy, initiative and determination that really count.

Born December 27, 1896, at 323 West Third street, Louie won none of the laurels of precocious babyhood and went along rather inconspicuously through grade and high schools, with graduation in the class of 1914.

As a reporter during that summer, there was no touch of genius detectable in his writing, and it might even have seemed that he was destined for earlier relegation to "the farm."

But as he wrote of his experiences in France, during his later service in the World war, there was discernible a steadily improving writing style and a gain in descriptive facility which have since been developed to the point of giving him a top-notch place in the field of contemporary literature.

Back of all this is the thought that success is something to be achieved; that the people of a community have no greater privilege, or responsibility, than to provide inspiration and opportunity for boys and girls to develop the best that is in them—for you can never be sure where unsuspected talents may exist in youthful minds.

It is not to Louis Bromfield, world famous author, that this editorial is intended as a tribute—it is to our cub reporter, "Louie," who set out to do something AND DID IT!

As nearly as can be ascertained, the present European war is being fought to determine which side won the last one.

Expansion Fever Lessens

AMERICANS, too, have had a fling at expansion, imperialism and world-envisagement. It came rather suddenly, and seemingly by accident, at the time of the Spanish-American war 40 years ago.

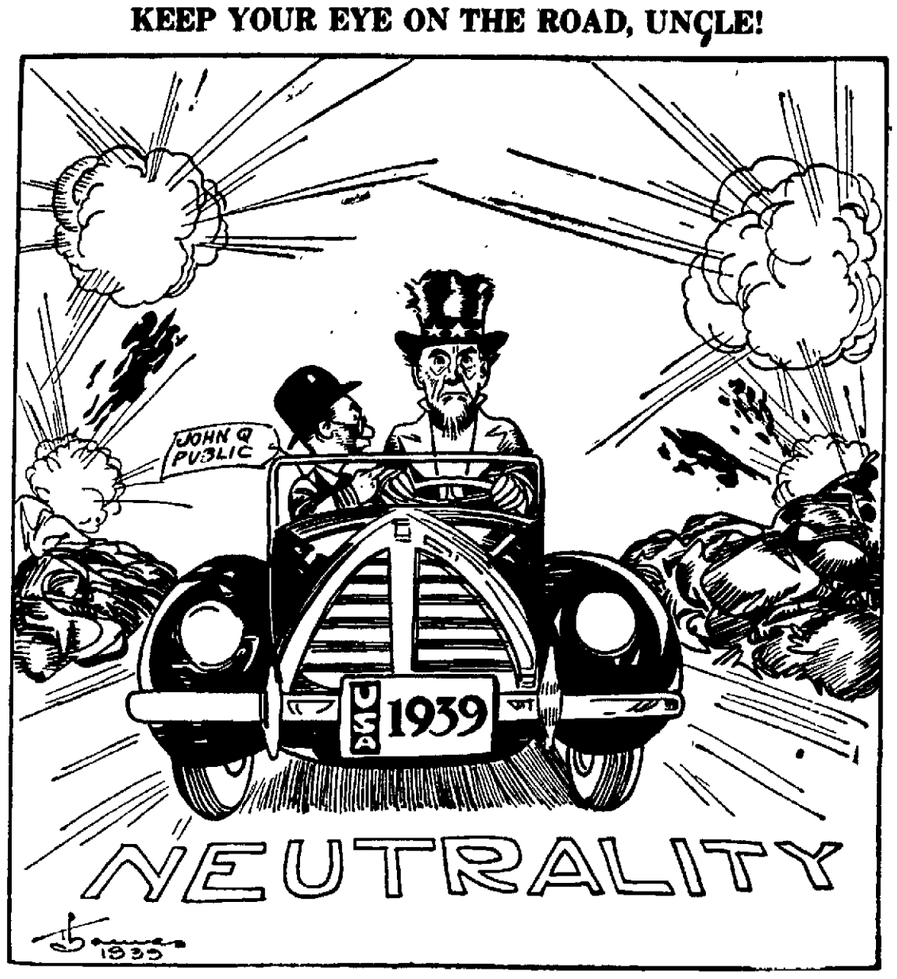
The pretext was humanitarian. First we set out to rescue our neighbors, the Cubans, from Spanish misrule and oppression. Then, as success enlarged our ideas, we proceeded to acquire the Philippines, Hawaii and Puerto Rico and various other odds and ends of real estate, including the Panama Canal Zone.

But we have pretty well recovered from that territorial spree, and now plan to give up the Philippines.

Economists have been saying lately that nations in general have much exaggerated the value and importance of colonies. Even the British Empire, so much envied by "land-hungry" powers, is said to have become great "not by virtue of area or population, but through the happy and largely accidental circumstance of combining peoples of industry and enterprise with rich resources."

The Japanese, Germans and Italians have not much luck with colonies and it is not evident that Hitler has yet improved Germany's situation by his expansion policies.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON THE ROAD, UNCLE!



Listen, World!

In the Secret Places.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

D'YOU LIKE AQUARIUMS? So do I. The dim, watery light . . . the strange forms, exquisite or hideous, weaving and wavering through their fantastic otherworld . . . it all does something to me, something even the best of shows can't do. Brings back some of that magic which made life so exciting once, before the Machines began crushing us.

I'm always a little different after I've spent an hour in an aquarium. It doesn't last, of course. But, for however briefly, the false veneer of civilization cracks and I go native again. . . . the old, numbed senses turning in their sleep. . . . peering, snuffling . . . touching forgotten fears and ecstasies . . . renewing lost bonds . . . revealing, sometimes, things I wish I could forget.

There was that empty tank last Sunday, for example. At least it seemed empty, after the slithering horror of the "bat-rays" and leopard sharks and the jeweled fairyland where the "sapphire fish" drifted in bands of luminous blue and silver through the rose coral's filigreed fans.

All the other glass cubicles had been crowded, pulsating with life. But here there was only a space of murky liquid and shadowy sand—cluttered with rocks and mysterious sections of clay sewer-pipe.

But why sewer-pipe? Why the whole depressing thing? The sharks had been bad enough but this, for some reason I couldn't define, was infinitely worse. Yet why on earth should an empty tank seem suddenly, indefinably abominable? The place must be playing tricks on me. Better move on.

But I didn't move on. Even as I started, something began to happen on that shadowed floor. The darkness stirred. Very faintly . . . almost imperceptibly—yet with a sense of impending horror that held me harder than hands. Stirred again . . . still without form of any purpose my conscious mind could define, though the gooseflesh rippled across me in a prickly wave. But one thing I knew — beyond all questioning. Whatever was coming, wasn't good. Was definitely and completely BAD. Then why was I staying around?

I never answered that question. For at that moment, the end of one of the gas pipe sections began to bulge . . . stretch out . . . and slowly—slowly a Thing emerged. A blunt, shapeless thing—without marking or color. An endless Thing . . . pouring itself out and out from the core of darkness . . . lifting itself up and up through the blackness—soundlessly, effortlessly—until it hung suspended before me, its source lost in the shadows, its night mare face glaring at me through the scant inch of glass . . .

Across a million years of evolution, the great Moray eel glared at me with dreadful awareness in its little evil eyes, those eyes that were set close and flat as a man's in the vile, enormous bulk of its body.

And the glass disappeared . . . and time was swept away . . . and Something dark and formless and evil in me answered that shapeless, malicious horror . . . answered without need of word or gesture.

And for an instant I remembered that which I should never forget—

I remembered those secret things which hide in every human heart, however "civilized" or "respectable"—

Those dark, formless desires which never see the light . . . which lie coiled forever in the innermost slime of our spirits . . . waiting . . . brooding . . . biding their time.

And a great horror seized me . . . and a great humiliation . . . and a great pity—

FOR I THOUGHT OF THOSE WHOM I HAD CONDEMNED . . . THOSE WHOM I HAD DESPISED—AND PUNISHED—

WHILE ALWAYS AND ALWAYS THIS HORROR LAY COILED IN MY OWN HEART!

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, Sept. 8, 1919.

Weather was so warm that straw hats continued in vogue.

Harold Bruce, Henry Isaly, Russell Phipps, Oliver Henkel and Ronald Henderson qualified as first class Boy Scouts.

Public schools re-opened with high school enrollment of 900.

Ross Weakley became assistant manager of Vonhof hotel.

Rev. S. K. Mahon was returned to pastorate of Epworth Methodist church in Toledo.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, Sept. 8, 1934.

Miss Dorothy Davey became the bride of Robert A. Nichols, Canton, at an open church service at First Presbyterian church.

An elephant-ear mushroom, weighing 11½ pounds was found at Mifflin by W. D. Adkins, 19 Ford avenue.

The seventh annual reunion of the class of 1926 was held at the Wonder Bar and a permanent organization formed.

TODAY IN HISTORY

New Amsterdam was surrendered by the Dutch to the English on September 8, 1664. The name was then changed to New York.

Timely Editorial

Cash Boy Crusaders.

Last month a member of the Dies committee, Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, remarked that from long listening to testimony on un-American activities, he had gathered an impression that the typical "subversive" organization is less a menace to the foundations of the republic than a racket. It is good now to find the opinion echoed by one like Homer Chaillaux, chairman of the Americanism committee of the American Legion, and an interested party to any debate on the theme.

The Dies inquiry has shown the ranks of these groups to be thin and their pretensions to power hollow. Both are likely to be even less substantial, now that the old arch foes, communism and fascism, are revealed as political bedfellows. Even the slow-witted will not go on paying admission to a battle of ideologies which turns out to have been exhibition wrestling.—Detroit News.

What Can Harm Unborn Child?

—By DR. CLENDENING

FROM Bethlehem, Pa., comes the suggestion that an article should appear on what the expectant mother should and should not believe.

"My wife," the man writes, "is an expectant mother and would like to see a dentist and have her teeth filled. She would also like to get a permanent wave, but being an expectant mother she is afraid that it might have some effect on her unborn child. Can you tell us if her fears have any grounds?

"There is so much talk going around, based on superstition, ignorance and bits of facts, that one does not quite know what to believe."

That last paragraph appeals to your sympathy. I do not know why, in a modern day and age, the neighbors would take the responsibility of volunteering to make the decision of giving advice either pro or con about such matters.

"Delicate Condition."

Especially under the circumstances. There is an old saying about "a woman in a delicate condition." Like all old sayings—old sayings that survive—it is packed with truth. An expectant mother is in a delicate condition. She looks forward to a gradual development of bodily changes and to a finale that at best is no fun. After that she assumes a great responsibility—the rearing of a human being, which in this day and period is no light matter.

Then at this exact moment the neighbors take it on themselves to barge in and relate "bits of facts" about some limited experience each has had.

There is one neighbor, though, that could be depended on to give some pretty good advice. The advice is good because it is based on experience; also because it is based on a complete understanding of the situation—meaning a thorough examination. The neighbor I refer to is your doctor.

Get Teeth Filled.

But to get down to the particular questions asked here. Of course the teeth should be filled. Your dentist can be depended on to advise you about that, and he has just as much responsibility as your doctor not to deal out superstitions in "bits of facts." Pregnacy makes inroads on the teeth. Consider the old saying, "for every child a tooth." It meant that the growing child has to have calcium, and Nature takes calcium where she can find it. If it is not provided in the food, she attacks the teeth. Attention to the teeth is one of the primary items of prenatal care.

As to the permanent wave, this is a matter that can be left to the discretion. It certainly won't hurt the unborn child—that point should be made very definitely. Personally I am in favor of it. It has a spiritual value; it cheers the expectant mother. She looks much better, at least from the neck up. So this improves her morale. And from the standpoint of a mere male I think morale in this situation is very important.

In fact, I will go a little farther and say that, in my opinion, an expectant mother should have a permanent wave once a week for the duration.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—This is a good place to be in moments of a European or an international crisis . . . Above the skyscrapers the air crackles with a thousand messages, all enciphered . . . If you could reach out and pluck them out of the air they wouldn't mean anything to you, because they are in code, and the codes are changed every hour, or every half-hour by the clock . . . Those messages are springing from Warsaw and London, and Budapest, and Paris, and Berlin, and Moscow.

New York takes its crises very seriously . . . I mean, they take them as they do world series games, or big prize fights by running a fever . . . In this office I am within 20 feet of great trunk wires from which messages are pouring in from every part of the country. Across the street are great radio studios, where short-wave messages pour in endlessly from every part of the globe . . . Every taxicab in New York has a radio that pours out a constant stream of information . . . Every taxidriver's seat is piled high with newspapers . . . It would not be an exaggeration to say that the New York hacksters are the best informed chauffeurs on earth . . . For naturally we have no censorship. Everyone says and writes as he pleases . . . And so ALL of the news is available to everybody all the time.

THIS afternoon I walked a few steps across from my desk to talk with a man who has spent most of his life as a correspondent in Europe . . . I asked him why he wasn't in Europe this time . . . "Well," he said, "if I were in London I would have only the London point of view. If I were in Paris I would have only what the French wanted me to have. But here in New York the thousand and one fragments that make up the whole of the European picture are dumped on this desk.

From these fragments I am able to piece together the whole story. This is the only way I can write a daily, accurate column that gives a clear, comprehensive picture of the European situation. It is like a soldier at the front. You may be a very high ranking officer, but the observer 50 miles behind the lines has a better idea of the general front than is possible for you to have . . . All you know is what takes place in your immediate sector."

I WATCHED him for a moment, with the latest reports from Berlin and Warsaw, and Paris and from every point on the continent of Europe spread before him. He was a man trained in the essentials of weeding out the sham . . . The significance of those messages seemed to pour through his fingertips and come out on paper in clear, comprehensive angles that would never occur to me. But then back of him lies 20 years' experience in parsing and analyzing world-shaking events.

Through the welter of puzzling, repetitious dispatches his own story ran like a pure, silken thread of hard common sense . . . He knows Europe as you know the street on which you live . . . He knows London and Paris and Vienna and Shanghai as I will never know New York . . . His name, by the way, is DeWitt McKenzie . . . It might be a good one for you to remember.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Sentinel—"A Little Path."

A perfect example of transposition of sense is "sentinel."

We have it from the French sentinelle, diminutive of sente path.

Sentinelle, therefore, meant originally "a little path," — the watchman's beat, from which the word was applied to the guard, rather than to the track he paced.

Hence its use in military parlance for the sentry posted to observe and warn of the approach of danger.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Many of the war topics discussed at the emergency cabinet meeting on Labor day have now leaked out. They dealt almost wholly with neutrality, including the convoying of American vessels through war zones.

Various cabinet members cited the difficulties of the Wilson administration when war broke out in 1914, and how the same mistakes could be avoided in 1939. Toward the end of the discussion, the president quietly dropped this piece of advice to his official family:

"There is one thing we must keep in mind all the time, and that is that we can't fool the people. We have got to put our cards squarely on the table. We must keep the people fully and honestly informed as to what is happening and why. We cannot make the same mistake of those abroad of withholding the facts from the public. We can trust the intelligence and judgment of the American people to do what is right. This country is a democracy and we must adhere to democratic processes."

One fact Roosevelt revealed to his cabinet was that the new War Industries Board was intended only as a temporary advisory body and would not become a permanent administrative agency like its 1917 original. Behind this assurance was great significance.

Several of his cabinet had complained to him that dynamic Assistant Secretary of War Johnson, in mobilizing industry, had accomplished something which the combined power of Wall Street had not been able to do. Johnson, they feared, had restored the House of Morgan to a key strategic position in Washington.

Careful study of the War Industries Board shows that four of seven members are close personal and business intimates of the great J. P. Morgan company. They are:

Chairman Edward R. Stettinius, jr., 37-year-old head of the giant U. S. Steel corporation, which is closely allied with the Morgans.

John L. Pratt, director of General Motors, with Morgan and Du-Pont ties.

John Hancock, of the Lehman Brothers banking firm, and a Morgan intimate.

This last selection particularly infuriated the inner circle, because Hancock was the leader of a Wall Street drive last winter to gut the Securities and Exchange commission. The last thing William O. Douglas did before going on the Supreme Court was to blast Hancock as a Morgan stooge.

No labor man was appointed to the War Industries Board to balance this line-up of Morgan men.

Meanwhile George Harrison, veteran president of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, has gone in for some heavy Morganing on his own account. A committee he appointed to "advise" him on financial problems arising out of the European conflict has as its principal members Henry S. Morgan, of Morgan, Stanley & Co., son of the international financier; William C. Potter, chairman of Guaranty Trust Co., a Morgan bank; and Frederick H. Ecker, head of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., and a close ally of the Morgans.

Incidentally, J. P. Morgan & Co., Guaranty Trust, and Metropolitan Life all are under investigation by the monopoly committee.

War Tension.

YOU can't walk along West Executive avenue, between the White House and the state department, without sensing the tension of the two establishments. People stand on the sidewalks, gaping at the doors as if they expected a movie star.

The heavy cars of sound movie crews are parked in the space reserved for diplomats. Photographers stand at the entrances, cameras perched on tripods, ready for action.

A newsman coming out of the state department stared at the crowd and said to a cameraman, "What's all the shooting for?"

"The people are waiting to see us take pictures," said the cameraman, "and we are waiting for somebody to 'shoot.'"

Morgan Influence.

SPEAKING of the House of Morgan, it is always healthy during a major crisis to examine the history of past crises.

The history of the last war, for instance, shows that J. P. Morgan and Co., acted as purchasing agent for France and Great Britain, receiving 1 per cent commission on all purchases, which came to $30,000,000 profit on the Allies' $3,000,000,000 of war orders.

Morgan profits probably amounted to considerably more for handling British and French loans in this country. Particularly interesting was the revelation of the senate munitions committee that Morgan's had placed British and French stocks and bonds with the U. S. treasury as collateral for loans of $294,000,000 to the British and $200,000,000 to the French.

With this collateral behind them, these loans were sound. However, after the Armistice J. P. Morgan urged that the collateral be waived and returned. Carter Glass, then secretary of the treasury, acquiesced. The collateral on $494,000,000 of war debts was returned, and the major portion of the French and British debts is still in default.

Thus was the power of J. P. Morgan in the last war. Arriving in New York from England this week, J. P. himself said it would be a "natural thing" if the British again appointed his firm their American agent.

Merry-Go-Round.

BERNARD BARUCH, tall millionaire head of the 1917 War Industries Board, privately was miffed because he was not named chairman of the board created for this war. Last winter he submitted a list of names to Roosevelt for appointment to the board, one near the top being Baruch's pal, General Hugh Johnson. Roosevelt tossed the list into the wastebasket. . . . When War Secretary Harry Woodring answers the telephone he says "Yep." . . . Iowa progressive Republicans have launched a drive to unseat National Committeeman Harrison Spangler on the ground that he is a handicap because of his close ties with Herbert Hoover. Leader in the ouster movement is John M. Henry, Council Bluffs newspaper man. . . . Senator Burt Wheeler protests that he is not a presidential aspirant. En route to his home in Montana, however, he stopped off in Chicago to visit the Townsend headquarters and assure the old-age pension crusaders that he was very "sympathetic" to their objectives. He also lauded Senator Sheridan Downey, No. 1 Townsend advocate in congress.

The First To Crow

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

MY young white rocks have attained a splendid growth. Since their babyhood I have faithfully fed, watered, cleaned and disinfected, watching the perceptible change each week and month would bring.

The last of June a heavy rainstorm came. I thought I had made every opening of the brooderhouse tight and warm, and watched the rain from the snugness and security of home with great delight. When it was over I waded with the children on the lawn and in the roadside ditches. We found ponds in the neighboring pasture, and I said, "I'll wait an hour or two until it dries off, to turn the chickens out."

Two or three hours later, when I sauntered down the path with fresh feed and water, rapped on the door and opened it, I found a scene of desolation. The whole interior of the brooderhouse was dripping wet with puddles on the floor, and sorry looking chickens piled upon each other for warmth in three different corners. The big north window had blown out and the storm had beat in upon them. Hurriedly I took several old dry sacks and wrapped the wettest shivering birds, then carried them to the house. Here, by aid of the oven door and the spacious porch where the sun shone warm and bright, my little whimpering charges were warmed and most of them began to walk about forgetful of the painful past. Only ten were drowned, beyond resuscitation.

For the past eight weeks I have changed their feed, gradually, and allowed them more range. Now they dot our little farm continuously all day, feeding upon fresh juicy grasshoppers and all the seeds and berries which they find. I go to shut them in every night, but during long, moonlight evenings they enter tardily and linger as long as they can see, out in the fragrant meadow.

This morning, just at dawn, I was awakened by a bold attempt to crow from one of the largest roosters. I looked out my window and there he stood, among a bevy of the finest pullets. He stood on tiptoe flopped his clean white wings, and crowed again to his admiring harem. This time he did a better job. I smiled as I watched him strut about.

This is the bird I will keep for stock, the boldest and most forward of the flock. In his veins courses the strain of early development and leadership that guarantees strength to his future progeny.

WEEP FOR LOVE + + + + +

CHAPTER XXX

"Where are we going?" Elizabeth asked when Kim did not break the silence.

Kim did not answer, but presenily he turned the car into a little byroad which was overhung with trees and which seemed to lead nowhere, and stopped the engine.

Elizabeth looked at him and tried to laugh, though the quick beating of her heart seemed to be choking her.

"If this is your idea of a country drive," she said lightly.

Lawless was opening his cigaret case.

"Will you have one?"

"No, thank you."

"Do you mind if I smoke?"

She answered icily, "Please yourself—as usual."

But though he lit a cigarette, he quickly allowed it to go out and flung it through the window.

"How long are we to stay here admiring the view?" Elizabeth enquired with sarcasm, and he answered:

"Until you have told me what I intend to know before I take you back to the Selbys'."

She made a swift movement as if to open the door, but Lawless said quietly:

"I can run faster than you can."

Another silence until Elizabeth broke out unsteadily: "What will Mrs. Selby think? Please let us go back — oh, please let us go back."

"When you have told me what I want to know."

She gathered her failing courage and laughed.

"Then we shall stay here till tomorrow morning."

"I shall be quite content," he answered.

It was so quiet everywhere, as if they had outrun the world. From above the thick hedges, Elizabeth could see a crooked line of grey hills topped with clouds, and the skeleton of a deserted windmill rising jagged broken arms to the sky.

Presently it began to rain. Patter, patter, softly went the raindrops everywhere, and she watched them bouncing off the dried leaves with a queer feeling of unreality, and then suddenly she knew that there were tears on her cheeks, difficult tears which had for many weeks been denied. She turned her face away, but not before Lawless had seen them, and presently he said gently, "I am waiting, Elizabeth."

"You can wait—forever," she answered brokenly, and then she felt his hands on her shoulders, forcing her to turn to him.

"What has Penelope told you?" he asked hoarsely, but she would not answer, and he took his hands away.

"I can wait," he said again, but there was a line of pain around his mouth as he saw her furtively wiping her tears away. It was raining heavily now and the world was growing dusk before Elizabeth spoke again.

"Mr. Lawless—please take me home. This can't do any good to either of us—you know it can't—and when the Selbys know—"

"I have no objection to the whole world knowing."

A passionate anger rose in Elizabeth's heart, a longing to hurt him—to make him angry—anything, if only she could rouse him from this calm determination. The desire seemed to seethe and grow until her whole body felt as if it were on fire and, at last, unable to control herself any longer, she broke out passionately:

"I think — after all — Penelope was lucky when you threw her over. If she knew you as well as I do—"

"She probably knew me better," he said evenly. "And as I am determined that today we shall be strictly honest with each other, Elizabeth, allow me to correct the statement that I threw Penelope over. I did nothing of the kind."

She turned her distressed face to him.

"That is not the truth," she answered sharply. "Penelope told me—"

She stopped, realizing that Penelope had told her nothing except the one tragic fact of her marriage.

"Penelope told you—" Lawless said questioningly.

She made a little gesture of "What does it matter? I don't care what happened. It is nothing to me."

* * *

There was a little silence before he said with great deliberation: "Nothing to do with you except that I hope—and I believe you love me as dearly as I love you, Elizabeth."

She tried to laugh in scorn, but she wept instead with her face hidden in her shaking hands.

Lawless sat very still, his hands clenched on the driving wheel, until at last, unable to bear it any longer, he turned and drew her into his arms.

At first she tried to resist, but she was too emotionally spent, and she just lay still with her face hidden against his shoulder. Her sobbing had died piteously away before Lawless spoke.

"I have never betrayed a trust in my life, Elizabeth, until now. But—it seems—quixotic madness—to risk my happiness and perhaps yours for the sake of a promise which should never have been made. I don't know what you have been told, but this is the truth about my engagement to your sister. When I first met your sister, there was nothing more between us than just an ordinary acquaintanceship — friendship. I liked her, and I suppose she liked me. At any rate, we went about a good deal together. I think I realized that she was different from other girls—more emotional and perhaps moody, too! It was almost as if there were something in her life which she was trying to hide—and to forget. We knew each other for some months before—

"Well, I had called at the house one day to take her out. I forget where we were going. I found her in tears. She would not tell me what was the matter, only that she was lonely, and—and—I suppose I can't hope to make you understand how it came about—another man would understand—I asked her to marry me and we were engaged."

He was silent for a moment, as if looking back on a memory which was not a happy memory.

"Our engagement lasted for a few months—and I hope you will not misunderstand when I tell you that before the end of the first week I knew it was a mistake. We quarreled badly, and at last I tried to tell her—but we patched things up and our wedding day was arranged and then I got an anonymous letter. I loathe anonymous letters, but this—for one thing it read truthfully, and for another—perhaps I was glad of some—loophole—excuse. At any rate, the letter said that she—Penelope, was already married."

Elizabeth gave a little broken exclamation, but Lawless went on steadily.

"I showed her the letter and—after denying it—she broke down and admitted it was the truth. Some man—when she had only just left school, apparently they only lived together for—well, just at week-ends, when it could be safely arranged—and then, I suppose it had the inevitable ending. She begged me not to—leave her—to help her to get a divorce. But I couldn't. I saw the man—a contemptible sort of fellow—she had been paying him to keep away. You see, he knew she had money, and he told me that nothing would induce him to divorce her—not money or—even if I was willing to. But that was out of the question, because—Elizabeth, forgive me if I tell you that I never had any real affection for her. Pity perhaps—and—that was the end. I promised I would never speak of her marriage and I never have spoken of it—until today. I know that, somehow or other, it was said that I had broken the engagement. I know that you have always believed that I did. But what I have told you is the truth before God—and if you have heard anything different—"

There was a pathetic silence before Elizabeth whispered, "Oh—poor Penelope." And for the moment that seemed to be the only thing that mattered. Poor, unhappy Penelope, who still loved this man with all the strength of her strange nature.

It seemed an eternity before Kim Lawless asked in a deeply moved voice.

"And now—is there peace in our camp, Elizabeth?"

There was about $1,800 in the store's safe, but they made no attempt to get it. The burglars broke through the skylight of an adjoining store and then found that a brick wall, a foot and a half thick, intervened between them and the liquor store.

They tunneled a hole through the solid wall of brick and finally made their way into the store. They ignored the safe and the cash register and centered their efforts on the shelves.

The next morning several empty bottles were found on the floor. About $10 worth of liquor was missing.

Sees War-Mutilated Bodies Lying In Polish Streets

WRITER VISITS TOWN SEIZED BY NAZI ARMY

Homes Fired Upon by Machine Guns, Buildings Destroyed, Correspondent Says.

By FREDERICK C. OECHSNER
(UP Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE GERMAN ARMY IN THE POLISH CORRIDOR—I have just come out of Bromberg, Poland, where buildings are pock-marked by machine gun bullets and where lie many bodies of men and women between the age of 14 and 70.

German officers said that these persons were Germans — victims of Polish atrocities. I personally saw 25 mutilated bodies in a tour that took me 40 miles deep into the war zone. The tour was conducted by the Germans.

Bromberg is a shattered shell of a city. Most of the big bridges leading into it were dynamited and the explosions broke windows in houses for blocks.

There must have been bloody street fighting in the suburbs. The fronts of houses were riddled by bullets, fired when the Germans fought their way into the city and the Poles resisted from windows and doors.

In an open field there were 12 mutilated bodies of men and women between the ages of 14 and 70. German officers said those persons were Germans who were attemepting to flee when they were captured.

I saw other bodies similarly mutilated—in streets, lanes, gardens and even in the parlors of the empty, shell-marked houses. Although I saw only 25 instances of mutilation, German military authorities said they estimated 800 Germans had been killed and mutilated.

Frequently as we stood on street corners women, whose eyes were dead and hopeless from the horror they had seen, passed by. They told us where other bodies were lying in the streets or fields near their homes.

German officers claimed these atrocities were committed by both Polish soldiers and civilians.

Apparently retribution will not be long in coming. During my stay in the city I saw many Poles, some of them young, being marched across Pilsudski square with their arms in the air. Gestapo agents were guarding them. I saw four Poles who seemed to be farm workers being taken away in an armored car. Young German soldiers with drawn pistols guarded them.

All of those Poles were said by the Germans to be snipers and informers — persons who had shown Polish soldiers where German civilians lived.

ATTENDANCE UP AT SHELBY FAIR

New Record Looms as 5,000 Attend Second Night of Annual Street Expo.

SHELBY—Attendance records continued to fall at the Shelby Community Street fair when a crowd estimated at 5,000 jammed the midway on Main street Thursday night for the second night of the fair. A crowd of 3,000 was on hand the opening night.

A feature attraction of the Thursday fair program was the softball game between the Shelby and Willard Old-Timers' baseball teams. Shelby won the game, 8 to 4. John R. Miller was on the mound for the Shelby team. During the evening free acts were on the program.

Free acts will again be given tonight on the east and west side squares. The program will open at 8 p. m. on the west side square with a band concert by the Ganges band. Other acts will be given every hour at platforms to be announced during the evening.

The highlight of the fair will be the annual colt show sponsored by the Richland County Horse Breeders' association beginning at 10 a. m. Saturday at the Black hardware barn on Wall street, near Brougher's garage. A parade of the colts will be held at 3:30 p. m. on Main street. Presentation of the various awards will be made following the parade at the west side square. Col. Bob French of Columbus and Clark L. Beal, general manager of the fair, will be in charge of this presentation. A free act program in the evening will close the fair Saturday.

PLAN PROGRAM

Cabinets of Junior, Senior Blue Tri Girls Meet Tomorrow.

Plans for the fall and early winter programs of junior and senior Blue Tri girls will be drawn up tomorrow when the combined cabinet of the two groups meet in the country for an all-day session.

Marjorie Boals is chairman and will preside. Other members of the new cabinet are Ruth Preston, Virginia Fairman, Gladys Kerr, Jeanette Werner, Barbara Chatlain, Anna Jane Lloyd, Helen Holtzmiller, Marion Lee Birch, Esther Leopold and Eileen House. Miss Violet Richardson, Girl Reserve secretary of the Y. W. C. A. will assist.

1,358 ENROLLED

SHELBY — Shelby Public schools have 1,358 students enrolled this year, registration figures completed today showed. The number is approximately the same as last year.

At the high school a slight decrease in enrollment was shown. Slightly over 700 students were enrolled last year, while this year there are only 695. The elementary schools are just the same this year with 663 students enrolled.

TYPHOID CASE

Galion Health Officials Check on Illness.

GALION—One case of typhoid fever in the city was reported by Dr. J. G. Mannhardt, city health commissioner, at the September meeting of the Galion Board of Health held Thursday afternoon at the city building.

It was reported that the case was being investigated, and that samples of water from a well and the milk supply used by the patient were sent in to the state laboratory to be tested.

The health board urges that weeds be cut in the city and that all persons notified to do this should comply promptly with the order. This is stressed in an effort to abolish the cause of hay fever and other diseases.

Second Fugitive In 2 Days Gives Up, Says He's 'Tired'

The second fugitive from the Ohio State reformatory to surrender volluntarily in as many days was reported today by Supt. Arthur L. Glattke.

He is Carl Haines, 25, of Knox county, who escaped from the institution five years ago after serving nine months of a one to 20 years sentence on a charge of rape with consent.

Haines was returned here last night by the sheriff of Knox county who said the fugitive walked into his office yesterday saying that he was "tired" and wanted to finish his sentence.

The inmate, Glattke said, had married since his escape and has a wife and child.

Yesteray Harlen Jones, Stark county fugitive surrendered to Glattke stating that he had married since his escape five years ago and that he wanted to "clear his conscience," so he could go back to his wife and two children.

GERMAN TROOP TRANSFER SEEN 1914 'REPEAT'

Germany's Reported Switch of Soldiers to West Frontier Recalls World War.

By CAPTAIN JOHN CRAIGE,
U. S. Marine Corps, Retired.
(Written for International News Service)

NEW YORK—If reports from France are true that the Germans are transferring troops wholesale from the Eastern front to meet the treat of the new Franco-British drive on the West Wall, history may repeat itself in reverse English.

In 1914 it was a Russion offensive on the Eastern front that saved Paris in the opening days of the last World war. Now the Franco-British offensive in the Moselle valley may save the gallant Polish army, if it is quick enough and strong enough and gains enough ground.

Most Americans who have reached their thirties need no reminder of what happened when field-gray hosts of the Kaiser were racing through Belgium and France with seemingly irresistable velocity. Liege and Mauboge fell, northern France was inundated, advance elements of German scouting formations were reported within dangerously few miles of Paris. Then something happened.

What happened was that the Russians had been able to pull off their lumbering mobilization from two or three weeks more quickly than the German general staff had figured. Before the German campaign on the Western front had gotten well under way, the Russion steam roller was gaining momentum on the Eastern front.

It rolled into East Prussia. Allenstein was captured, the imperial city of Koenigsburg threatened.

It happened that the supreme chief of the German general staff was a general named Von Moltke. He was not much of a general but his grandfather's brother had been one of the very greatest military geniuses of modern times. That was nice, but you can't command an army on your great-uncle's abilities

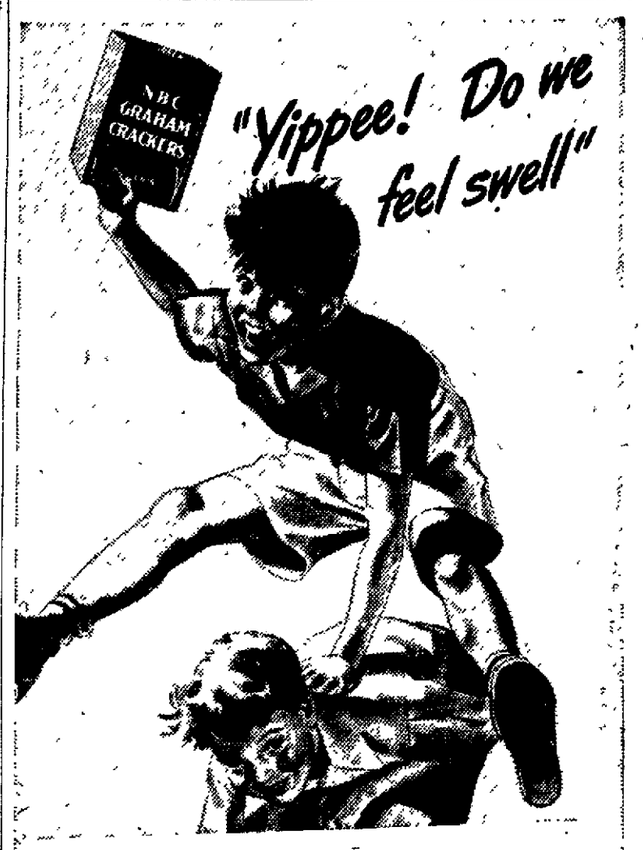
And so it came about that when Von Moltke received the news of the Russian capture of Allenstein he was afflicted with one of the most monumental cases of jitters ever recorded in military annals. Pleas and complaints began to pour in from East Prussian bigwigs and politicians. Each of these wanted a couple of army corps to protect his particular ward and precinct.

So poor old Von Moltke lost his head. Grabbing divisions and army corps by the handful from among the attacking German formations in France and in reserve, he flung them across Germany toward East Prussia. By the time they got there another old man, Von Hindenburg, who didn't have the jitters had settled the Russians, (with the aid of a practically unknown genius named Von Hoffman) but the damage to the attack in France was done.

The battle of the Marne was fought. The drive on Paris was ended and the war settled down to the stalemate of trench warfare, never again to emerge into battle of movement until the final German retreat.

GRID TICKETS ON SALE

SHELBY — Booster football tickets went on sale at noon today for the five home games on the 1939 football season of Shelby high school. The tickets will sell for $2. Regular single admission for home games will be 40 cents, school officials announced.



Mothers ask: "What between-meal food for children answers these requirements?"

1. It must be appealing. You'll never have to coax youngsters to eat NBC Graham Crackers. They love the tempting flavor.

2. It must not spoil appetites for regular meals. No fear of NBC Grahams doing that! They are completely wholesome—easily digested.

3. It must be good for them. NBC Grahams are an energy-helping food needed by growing children.

4. It must be of high quality. NBC Grahams are made of fine ingredients . . . baked under sanitary conditions . . . carefully packaged and sealed.

5. It must be easy to get and serve. Your grocer carries NBC Grahams. Order a package for the week-end. Keep it handy and tell the youngsters to help themselves. You'll like NBC Grahams, too.

Colors stay bright and new-looking . . . Dishes sparkle with this amazing new hard-water suds

Soon you will know why women by the thousands are giving up expensive soap flakes and switching to Vel. It is the greatest suds invention in all history.

Yes, women are raving about Vel, the new kind of suds, far superior to soap. Underwear and stockings, thought seedy and gray beyond rescue, regain their brilliant color and softness after one easy washing with Vel.

Stockings keep new looking longer! Lingerie and foundation garments keep their bride-like freshness and color! Colored prints sing with radiant sparkle! All because Vel—the soapless suds—launders dainty fabrics in such an amazing new way.

A TRIUMPH OF SCIENCE

Such sensational results are now possible because science has found in Vel a way to make abundant suds without any soap-scum or alkali.

VEL ENDS SOAP-SCUM

Vel is a new fine-fabric suds far superior to soap for silks and stockings. Vel makes as much as five times more suds than finest soap flakes—in hardest water. Yet it rinses out easily. You can see Vel makes no soap-scum to dull the color because it leaves no ring around the bowl.

through the war in spite of hints that Germany is about ready to make a bid for peace.

Forty-eight hours had passed without an air raid alarm today when Britons read that French troops are hammering away at Germany's Limes line, and that British destroyers have sunk at least one U-boat.

Government - inspired articles appeared in the press indicating that Germany's aerial defenses are not invincible, as shown in the recent British and Polish raids on German cities and naval bases.

(Germany denied reports of the previous Polish raid on Berlin. Details of today's report were lacking.)

Particular attention was paid to the statement of a member of the British—embassy staff, who returned last night from Berlin, that German morale is low, and the reich cannot last more than a year.

Mounting reports of U-boat activities against British merchantmen naturally are not passing unnoticed. But the official view is that submarine successes are inevitable in the early stages of war.

Submarine warfare will be rapidly eradicated, the British say, as the network of patrols tightly closes strategic bottle necks and ocean-going submarines are located and tracked down.

ATTENDANCE AT SCHOOLS FALLS

First Week Enrollment in City 206 Under Last Year; Only 3 Buildings Show Gains.

Either Mansfield's school enrollment declined sharply this year or there is a big season ahead for the truant officer.

Attendance reports showed today that 6,097 pupils enrolled for the new term, 206 fewer than last year.

School officials pointed out, however, that a number of pupils enter school late and an accurate report of enrollment usually is not available until the second week of the term. City schools opened Wednesday.

Only Bushnell, Woodland and John Simpson Junior high schools show gains this year over the enrollment last year, according to reports compiled by Supt. W. L. Miller. The other nine schools dropped off in enrollment.

The Bushnell enrollment climbed to 266 from 217 last year. Woodland went up 10, from 114 to 124, and at the John Simpson building, 979 are enrolled as against 928 last year.

The Hedges elementary enrollment showed the largest drop, the enrollment there declining 36, from 432 last year to 396. The total enrollment at Hedges school, including about 270 pupils from John Simpson junior high school, was listed today at 1,001.

John Simpson pupils will attend classes there until the two new junior high schools are completed.

Senior high school, with the largest enrollment of any school in the city, had 1,242 pupils, a slight decrease from last year.

ish army, and for this reason mapped out their Polish plan on the systematic plan of breaking up Polish military forces into regional units, each to be surrounded in turn while major cities are encircled.

This plan, plus rapid formation of an iron ring around the corridor, seems to have raised havoc with Polish military defense tactics and morale if German reports are true.

The current assumption that Polish resistance is being chiefly confined to rear guard tactics while falling back on the main defense lines held the main Polish army is becoming a mere illusion as the German war machine sweeps everything before it.

Anything that could be called a battle is non-existent for the moment. Fighting has narrowed down chiefly to localized skirmishes on a large scale, enlivened by occasional artillery, tank and aerial action as fortified points are reached daily.

A final stiffening by the Poles before the Warsaw region is reached is anticipated, but there is little prospect that the German advance will be halted for long.

A bird's eye view of the present area of military operations reveals little resembling a battlefield comparable to those of Northern France in 1917.

The ruins of bombed railway stations, air fields and military establishments are still smoking in many sections I traversed, with occasional evidence of shellfire.

A mile or two ahead of the main parade goes active fighting apparatus, driving everything ahead of it.

Through field glasses one sees armored cars criss-crossing the countryside proceeding slowly along main roads followed by motorized infantry.

When firing develops, the action speeds up accordingly. If resistance becomes formidable, artillery thunders, with air force machine-gunning and bombing overhead.

The number of wounded on both sides and the number of Polish prisoners taken usually indicate the strength of the opposition being encountered up ahead.

A different spectacle presents itself from the woods north of Bromberg, where the iron ring is slowly squeezing together some 40,000 trapped troops, no longer under a central command. During the last three days, therefore, their counter-attacks have been uncoordinated and inconsistent.

Polish prisoners from the inside of the ring said yesterday they had not eaten for a couple of days.

Tells of Surrender.

One officer said he had been completely cut off from Warsaw for four days. Detachments of any where from 100 to a couple of thousand men are constantly appearing out of the woods into open roads to surrender.

On the whole, I found equipment captured from the Poles to be outmoded. The arms that Polish officers carry, for example, are similar to the old type American Colt army automatic.

From the moment I set foot in the corridor just beyond Flatow, where the German army went in and Hitler crossed the border four days ago, evidence pointed only too glaringly at the unpreparedness of the Polish army.

At only one point on the Polish border—Bromberg—did the Polish troops offer more than fragmentary and courageous resistance. There they cut down trees, felling them across the road for barriers, blew up every road and railway bridge and dug some trenches. But their 15 miles of fortified defense line allegedly two miles deep, located half-way to Bromberg, was practically useless and in a half finished state.

Cement was not yet dry. Pill boxes were incomplete, and barbed-wire had been erected only at a few road junctions.

Just before Bromberg stood two solitary anti-tank barriers—the only ones in the whole region.

The Germans blew this aside like paper. In comparison with a Czech fort I saw last October, the Polish defenses seemed pathetic.

The only conclusion that can be reached is that the Poles were caught unprepared.

night without an air raid warning, but the shrill of sirens was heard in several provincial cities, including Marseilles, the country's largest city, Lille, Lehavre, Nancy and Toulon.

Internal war measures kept piling on thickly as more and more regulations were announced.

French reserve orders in a public appeal asked that anyone circulating rumors which might injure morale be reported for arrest.

The official journal decreed that all foreigners living in or passing through France must bear special war-time identity cards to travel from one zone to another. France has been divided into new zones by the ministry of war.

Families Get Aid.

The official journal also announced that families of those mobilized may demand subsistence payments based on the size of the families. Payment will start at 12 francs (30 cents) per person per day in the Paris region, and range down to 7 francs (16 cents) for residents of rural districts.

More reports of internal unrest in Germany were heard in France today.

Mme. Tabouis said that Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbel's personal guards had been replaced by 15 Elite guard troopers, and his power seriously curtailed.

Posters have appeared in Germany, she added, saying "even with the 50 per cent set-up Hitler has demanded of the people, he will never win the war."

COLLEGE SPIRIT PUT TO WORK

Tom Sawyer's Technique Used In Construction Program At Bluffton College.

BLUFFTON—(U.P.)—The technique used by Tom Sawyer in getting others to whitewash his fence has been employed successfully in the construction of a building on the Bluffton College campus.

Last spring when the college expressed its need for a building to house student industries, Carl J. Landes, a Pennsylvanian with the "old college spirit," volunteered to get one built. Labor and funds were to be donated.

To obtain help Landes made the work a pleasure. Letters were sent to alumni, faculty, students and friends of the school urging them to "spend one week of the best vacation you ever spent anywhere" in Bluffton.

The "vacation" would be the razing of an abandoned school building which had been purchased by the college for the bricks and other materials with which to construct the new campus unit.

The project was called the "Bluffton College Camp." A scholastic aura was thrown around it with the booking of well-known speakers for discussion forums and the opening of the college library.

A program of softball, swimming, tennis, and other sports was arranged and "free room and board" signs were hung out.

Women as well as men were invited. Their duties were to clean bricks, pull nails, direct recreation, and cook meals.

The appeal sent out by Landes read: "Don't miss this week of work, discussion, recreation, and fun. If you can't spend a week, spend five days, two days, one day, but come."

And they came, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, and Pennsylvania auto licenses were seen on the campus.

The old building was demolished by Aug. 1 and the new building is well on its way to completion. It is reported that the work will be finished by the opening of school.

SPENDS MILLIONS IN MINNESOTA

ST. PAUL, Minn.—(U.P.)—Minnesota's 10,000 lakes are not only productive of fish but also of cash—some $129,000,000 each year.

State game officials estimate that the nation has some 40,000,000 outdoor enthusiasts who spend around $5,000,000,000 annually satisfying a desire to "get away" from home.

And because of its lake-infested wilderness of 20,000,000 acres, Minnesota attracts $129,000,000 of the $5,000,000,000.

TEXAS FIELDS SWEPT BY FIRE

FORT WORTH, Tex.—(U.P.)—Days of the great prairie fires were recalled here when a small blaze was whipped by winds and burned 700 acres of dried-out oats and wheat fields nine miles west of the city. Women were conscripted to drive water trucks while men fought the flames in various ways. Several ranchers brought out trucks they maintain which carry hand pumps attached to water tanks.

Following the first threat, ranchers began plowing "strips" 1 to 12 feet wide through their fields as barricades to spread of possible future fires.

204 File as Rural Candidates Push to Beat Deadline

DOZENS MORE TO ENTER IN FINAL HOURS

Township and Village Office Seekers Have Till 6:30 P. M. to Submit Petitions.

With the deadline only a few hours away, more than 200 candidates had filed nominating petitions today with the county board of elections for the 130 rural and village offices to be filled at the November election.

A steady stream of petitions poured into the election board office as candidates sought to file before 6:30 p. m. today, the deadline. Nearly 100 candidates filed yesterday afternoon and this morning and dozens more were expected to submit petitions to the board by tonight.

Filed so far are 97 candidates for offices in the county's six villages, 78 for township offices and 29 for school board posts, a total of 204.

M. B. Peoples, a candidate for treasurer in Butler village, withdrew his petition today, giving no reason.

Heated School Race Seen.

Forecasting a heated race for two school board posts in the Union rural district, eight candidates had filed today for the two offices. So far, no other districts has more than two candidates for the school board except Plymouth village where four have filed.

Candidates in the Union district are Vonie B. Oswalt, Arthur Pugh, Thomas P. Crabbe, Laster Lantz, Charles F. Laser, Mrs. Ozra Ferrell, Wesley Boals and George Robinson. Laser and Mrs. Ferrell are seeking re-election.

Others who had filed today are John R. Sawyer and Floyd C. Miles for Madison township trustee; W. A. Freeman, clerk, Washington township; Mabel Weber, clerk, Worthington township; H. G. Sturgeon, clerk, Mifflin township; Ivan Artz, clerk, Jackson township; Melvin Yoha, clerk, Butler township; J. W. Snook, trustee, Mifflin township; Harry Ackley, trustee, Jackson township; Warren Smith, trustee, Butler township; A. W. Pugh, trustee, Weller township; N. H. Banks, trustee, Washington township; W. S. Kahl, trustee, Weller township; Mary E. Chappell, treasurer, village of Plymouth; Martin Finkey, mayor, Bellville; and Donald R. Barnes, trustee, Cass township.

"Cafe Front" In Paris Has Fun In Spite of Conflict

PARIS — (AP) — Notes from the cafe front, where the war also is being fought but the communiques are not so terse:

They are putting uniforms on the dummies in store windows now, and the police ask questions if you are caught without a gas mask.

They are making cloth covers for gas masks in colors to match women's dresses.

Newspaper editorialists suggest that the government should "tell the nation the truth even if it hurts" in its communiques on the progress of the war.

Jacques Pericard, who launched the newspaper suggestion that a "Volunteers of Death" corps should be formed, said he received 260 applications. They were from unmobilized men between 16 and 66, and some from women. All writing that they wanted to undertake perilous duties to save the loss of able-bodied French infantrymen.

A large corner cafe, its windows closed and taped to guard against the concussion of bombs, still has a sign dangling out front reading, in German, "We Speak German." Another cafe sign reads: "Sorry, suddenly called to the front. See you later."

BURY BOY, 12

Private Services Held Today For Peritonitis Victim.

ASHLAND — Private funeral services were held this afternoon at the Loudonville cemetery for Dale Leroy Bowen, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bowen of Ashland, who died last night at the McClain rest home in Savannah of peritonitis. Rev. J. H. Kuhlman, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church of Loudonville officiated and burial was made in the Loudonville cemetery.

The youth was born Jan. 22, 1927 in Ashland. He was taken to the rest home June 1. Surviving besides the parents are a sister, two brothers, two half sisters, and his grandparents.

BRATSCHIE RITES SUNDAY

Funeral services for Chester Bratschie, 28, who died Thursday, will be held at the home, 22 Chestnut street, at 1:30 p. m. Sunday with Rev. Grover E. Swoyer of the First Lutheran church officiating. Burial will be in the Biddle cemetery, Crawford county. A resident of Mansfield 16 years, Mr. Bratchie was born in New Castle, Pa., Oct. 5, 1911.

Up and Down THE STREET

Harold W. Arlin and Floyd Dent are back from a Canadian fishing trip, convinced that another thing this country needs is a canoe that won't upset so easily when a would-be passenger falls into it. Arlin also thinks Dent might learn a new technique for boarding the tricky craft or perhaps reduce a little so the results won't be so disastrous when he falls. Dent, it seems, tripped as he was entering the canoe, causing it to turn over and dousing Arlin and another companion in the lake.

One of those strange coincidences that occur once in a lifetime took place recently when Mrs. Fannie Copeland, 189 Westwood avenue, went to Camp Avery Hand for a picnic. When Mrs. Copeland attended a family reunion back in 1910 she lost a spoon that was a part of her wedding silver and which was engraved with her name. When she sat down the other night at the Boy Scout camp and reached for her silverware, the old silver spoon looked familiar. She picked it up—and saw her name engraved on the handle. No one knows how it came to the camp or when, but she found it 29 years and two days after losing it.

Ralph Guldahl, former U. S. Open champion, who appeared in an exhibition match at Possum Run yesterday, is one of the game's greatest golfers, but in one respect he is little different than many of the duffers. He also has trouble keeping a supply of tees. When they teed off for the exhibition match, Guldahl borrowed a tee, much to the delight of the gallery. He did the same thing on No. 2, but picked up enough in front of the other tees to keep himself supplied.

When Louis Bromfield makes his appearance tonight at both the Ohio and the Madison theaters for the premiere of his picture "The Rains Came," it will be because he has the "show must go on" spirit. The author suffered a badly wrenched back yesterday while working on the farm and last night could scarcely move without severe pain. "But I'll be there," he said, "if I have to be carried in on a stretcher."

NOMINATED FOR FOREMAN POST

Arlin One of Three Candidates From Ohio for Director of National Association.

Harold W. Arlin, personnel director at the Mansfield Westinghouse plant, had been selected today as one of three nominees from Ohio for a director's post in the National Association of Foremen.

The other nominees are Fred Long of the Galion Iron works, who has been a director for the past year, and A. M. Degner of Toledo.

Officers and directors of the association will be elected next Thursday at the opening of its 16th national convention in Pittsburgh. The association's second annual exposition will be held in connection with the convention.

More than a dozen members of the Mansfield-Shelby Foremen's club will be Jay S. Cairns, president, and E. C. Geiger, vice president. Others who plan to attend include Arlin, representing Westinghouse; I. S. Perry, Ohio Brass company; D. L. Divelbiss and W. R. Mabee of the Tappan Stove company. Divelbiss is treasurer of the Mansfield-Shelby foremen's organization.

Nationally known industrial leaders will speak at the convention and exposition.

DEPOSED ELECTION OFFICIALS ASK RIGHT TO TESTIFY IN QUIZ

(By Associated Press)

WAVERLY—Members of the deposed Pike county election board, excused from testifying before a special grand jury delving into charges of illegal voting, said today they would demand to be allowed to appear before the inquisitorial body.

In a surprise move, the jury yesterday excused Probate Judge Will H. Acord, county Democratic chairman, and former election board member Raymond Daily, jr., Republican, and M. J. Cofer and C. J. Heible, both Democrats. Earlier, the jury had questioned briefly Roy Wilson, Republican member of the old board.

Meanwhile, Judge Acord and Wilbur M. Cool, secretary of the county Democratic executive committee, filed suit in the Ohio Supreme court in Columbus to compel Secretary of State Earl Griffith to appoint two county election board members the committee recommended.

The names of Wray Bevens, former head of the state division of aid for the aged, and Frank D. Stahler, farmer, were recommended, but Griffith claimed they were unqualified. The mandamus action contended that the secretary of state lacked authority to make such a ruling. The action also asked that Griffith be enjoined from naming anyone in the place of Bevens and Stahler.

The Pike county board was removed after Griffith charged his investigators found evidence of fraud during the 1938 general election in Pike county. Later, Gov. John W. Bricker ordered a special grand jury to conduct an inquiry.

KILLED BY TRAIN

Mansfield Youth Fatally Hurt Walking Tracks in Indiana.

John Eubank, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mose Eubank, 313 Bowman street, was fatally injured when struck by a passenger train while walking on a railroad track in Wabash, Ind., yesterday.

Eubank died in the Wabash hospital at 2 p. m. yesterday, four hours after being struck. He was walking the track with his back to the approaching train, Wabash authorities said.

The youth left the city a few days ago to go to Wabash in search of work. He formerly was employed at the Barnes Manufacturing company.

Born in Xenia, he had resided in this city nine years.

His parents, two sisters, Esther at home and Mrs. Naomi Munnerlyn of New Castle, Pa., and two brothers, Mose, jr., and Howard of Mansfield, survive.

Funeral services will be held at the Shiloh Baptist church at 2:30 p. m. Monday with Rev. E. Edward Foster officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery. The body will be taken to the home of his parents Saturday afternoon.

TRAILER CITY RESIDENT DIES

Marion Rinehart, 31, Succumbs After Lingering Illness.

Marion Rinehart, 31, of Trailer City, died at his home early today following a lingering illness.

Born Oct. 7, 1907 in Johnsville, Mr. Rinehart had been employed at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company for 14 years. Surviving are his wife, Bertha; his mother, Mrs. Emma Rinehart of Johnsville; three sisters, Mrs. Roby James of Fredericktown, Mrs. Lucille Talbot of Mt. Vernon, and Mrs. Iva Gates of Shelby, and six brothers, Thomas and Kenneth of Bellville, Lucas of Johnsville, Lee of Iberia, Clarence of Bonner, Mont., and Raymond of Martel.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the United Brethren church in Johnsville.

JURY CONVENES

15 Cases Slated to Come Before Ashland Panel Today.

ASHLAND—Fifteen cases, most of them for non-support, were scheduled to be heard by the Ashland county grand jury which convened today for the September term.

About 26 witnesses are slated to be called during the session expected to continue through Monday.

DIES IN COUNTY INFIRMARY

Funeral services for Mrs. Eunice Davis, 34, who died in the Richland county infirmary Thursday, were to be held at the Jones funeral home, 681 Park avenue west, at 4 p. m. today with Rev. J. G. Ellington officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

LAFF-A-DAY

"Cut the grass, rake the leaves, water the lawn! Who married Pop, you or me?"

CITY OFFICIALS FAVOR VOTE ON HALF PROGRAM

Would Ask Electorate to Put Approval on $300,000 Issue in November Election.

Resubmission of part of the water and sewer bond issue proposal which was defeated at the August primary is being considered in city hall circles, it was learned today.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter who first sought the sewer bond issue early this year, admitted that he had "considered" the resubmission idea, but would not comment.

A number of councilmen also are known to favor resubmitting the $300,000 issue at the November election while a few have termed the idea "political suicide."

It is the opinion of some officials that the sewer bonds were defeated because the voters were opposd to going into debt nearly a million dollars at present to finance both water and sewer improvements.

See Favorable Reaction.

They contended that if the issue was only for sewers alone and the amount of the bonds was for $300,000 instead of $800,000, that the reaction of the electorate would be much more favorable.

Both the sewer and water bonds received only a 48 per cent vote in the primaries Both needed a 65 per cent majority to pass.

Officals have argued that rehabilitation of the sewers is of prime importance due to their rundown condition and that no funds are available now to make even minor repairs.

Should the voters be asked to consider the question again in November, council would have to act on legislation before the Oct. 5 meeting in order that it could be filed with the county board of elections before the filing deadline Oct. 7.

LEGION ELECTS

R. M. James New Commander of Mansfield Post.

Richard M. James will be the next commander of Earle D. McVey Post, American Legion. He was unanimously chosen at the annual election of the post Wednesday evening. James succeeds Walter L. Beckley.

During the past year the new commander was senior vice commander of the post. He and other officers will be installed by Dr. Kuntz of Fremont, fifth district commander, at a meeting Sept. 20.

A reception also will be held at this time for R. B. Gardner, commander-elect of the state Legion and one of the early commanders of McVey post.

Other officers chosen Wednesday were Earl Saltzgaber, senior vice commander; Marion DeHart, junior vice commander; Chalmer B. Harris, adjutant; Harry E. Pollock, finance officer; Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, chaplain, re-elected, and P. C. Davis, sergeant-at-arms.

Beckley was elected to a five-year term on the home building committee.

EAGLES INITIATE CLASS SUNDAY

100 New Members To Be Taken in Lodge in Ceremonies Here.

A class of 100 new members will be taken into the Eagles lodge at initiation ceremonies at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Eagles hall on North Main street.

Members from Crestline, Shelby, Mt. Gilead, Galion, Ashland and Loudonville will attend.

A banquet will be held in the club rooms following the ceremonies.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Pegler Knows Such Things Happen But Still Wishes Someone'd Do Something

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—I have never been able to understand the dogged refusal of William Green even to admonish, much less remove, notorious criminal racketeers from control of unions under his general jurisdiction until local opinion finally prods the public authorities into action against them.

Probably I am naive about this, as I was about European politics, and I hope I am, for the more a man knows about practical union relations and practical or realistic international affairs the more perfidy he is willing to condone. He becomes infected with the dishonesty of the subjects under consideration.

I found the same difficulty when I first covered prize fights. A couple of boys would ride to the scene of a contest in the same Pullman drawing room, get off the train at opposite ends, poisoning the very air of Memphis or Little Rock with the fumes of their hatred, and a few hours later would drift into the measures of a performance which was called a waltz or barney.

The customers were deceived, but the sordid corruptioneers of the cauliflower trade insisted that they had not been swindled, for they thought they had seen a great fight. I always wrote in a "My God, can such things be?" tone, however and, smeared up nobody ever will know how many thousands tons of good white paper fearlessly denouncing such ribald impositions on the public trust.

Toward the end of my career on the sport side, when I was beginning to get cosmic, I developed a slight tolerance for such low morals and a warm friendship for some of the managers who had deliberately engineered such sinister doings.

But I never did conquer a feeling—somewhat priggish, I suppose—that I wasn't living up to the principles of citizenship which I had derived from the inspirational cartoons, in sitting around with them, after hours, and hearing their sordid shop talk without shouting, "Officer, arrest these men!"

In spite of extensive acquaintance among international journalists who know all the diplomats and dictators I still find myself hampered by a superstition that nations are composed of patriots who fight only for national honor as they see it. And when these men declare, and write books to prove, that wars are deliberately started by mysterious munitioneers named Boris, Emil and Andre and that millions of men must die in these ghastly things every twenty years for no other purpose than to provide yachts and other luxuries for those creatures. I try not to believe them. A man must have some ideals.

And now I come back to the subject of racketeering in labor and try to believe that unions are voluntary organizations of the man in the square cap, governed by the votes of this rank and file and devoted to the improvement of his condition in life. In fact, I do believe it, but often I know I am acting the fool in so believing, because I know that in many cases the man in the square cap is no more the master of his own union and his own actions than a German pick-and-shovel hand is master of the Reich.

Johnny Square Cap can be barred from work if he doesn't join the union and thrown out of work if he does, and not by decree of the employer, necessarily, but by a nod from someone at the top of the union who happens to find himself in need of political profit or vulgar graft or in a fight with the leader of a rival union.

I know that some big unioneers possess the power, through legislative trickery in the drawing of the union constitutions, to vote the entire strength of their square cap rank and file without consulting them at all and in defiance of their opinion. I know. Johnny Square Cap has been stuck up for extortionate fees and dues by criminals who will bat his ears off if he peeps and disenjob him if he doesn't shower down.

I know that some unions destroy property, terrorize citizens and their wives and children, conspire with one employer against another for graft and do business with political candidates to the end that prosecutors, even of the highest degree, will take it easy lest they be branded "anti-labor" for prosecuting racketeers.

I know, too, that the A. F. of L. rarely does anything about such conditions and that this is practical unionism in the higher reaches. Yet always, in spite of my practical knowing, I approach such cases with an air of "My God, can such things be?" and with my face made to holler, "Officer, arrest these men!"

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It's a little snow-white bungalow with baby-blue window shutters and you'd expect Shirley Temple to live there.

You know who does live there? Bela Lugosi. Bela, the bogeyman, and Mrs. Bela, his young American wife, and Bela, jr., who is 18 months old now.

A delicious suggestion of an aroma insinuates itself into the atmosphere from the kitchen. There's a Hungarian cook in there, and what a cook! Bela is just up—he reads until 4 a. m. daily and is having his unghoulish breakfast of cantaloupe, pears, peaches, gooseberries, milk—but our lunch is a dream of fragrance and delight. Stuffed cabbage, ah-h-h! A meal in itself, and such a meal! Then coffee, and a dessert—palacsinta. That's a Hungarian pancake, folded over guava and papaya jelly.

Then talk. Movie villains, especially the horror men, are charming people. That goes for Karloff, for Peter Loree, for Lugosi. They do not always tend their flowers personally, but almost invariably they love their children and dogs.

The living room is not elaborate. The house is small, not like the mansion the Lugosis had once upon a time. The furniture is heavy, leather-upholstered. The enormous grand piano fills one-third of the room.

Bela has just done what every actor wants to do. He has worked with Garbo. A small role in "Ninotschka." Small, but important to him. This, he says, may be the role that will restore him to his lost past. He shares the scenes alone with Garbo. He plays a straight character, not a bogeyman. Producers, directors, will see the Garbo picture because they will see Garbo. Lugosi hopes also they will see Lugosi, playing straight.

His is not a new story to Hollywood. For 20 years he was on the Hungarian stage, went to New York a success. Because he played there the horror role of "Dracula" and was brought to Hollywood to make the picture, he became "Dracula" to movie-makers. This was well—he had a mansion then—until the censors clamped down on horror pictures.

"For two years," he says, "I did not work. I sat by the telephone. I hypnotized it by sitting looking at it, waiting for a call. None came. I lost my home, my car, my furniture, almost everything.

Then a little theater in town tried an experiment. A full bill of horror films. "Frankenstein" and "Dracula" together. Lines waited outside to get in, night after night. The horror vogue swept the country. Universal promptly called Karloff and Lugosi for "The Son of Frankenstein." Lugosi's small role was expanded as the film developed, expanded to equal Karloff's. After that, Lugosi had "come back," was in demand again.

"The baby came," says Bela, "just before that picture. There is a Hungarian proverb which applies: 'When the Lord gives a lamb, he provides a pasture for it'."

Today, thanks to that picture, to "The Shadow Creeps," to "Ninotschka" and others, Lugosi has reclaimed his car, his furniture, paid all his debts.

CHURCH GROUPS START NEW FALL PROGRAMS

Election of Officers In Three Organizations Business of Day at First Methodist Church; Presbyterian Circles Meet.

BUSY DAYS ahead, and busy days behind us make a steadily swelling stream of things to do in Mansfield. Yesterday saw a number of events to occupy Mansfield women, and one of the most important was the meeting of the missionary societies at the First Methodist church. During the Foreign society meeting Mrs. Ellis Lincoln presided and heard the report of the nominating committee.

The officers for the current year are Mrs. Anna Rice, president; Mrs. Lincoln, vice-president, Mrs. E. J. Martin, secretary; and Mrs. George DeYarman, treasurer.

Mrs. R. W. James was re-elected to the presidency of the Home society. Mrs. L. D. Bower is vice-president; Mrs. O. G. Place, recording secretary, and Mrs. Hugh Clark, treasurer. Mrs. Bower and Mrs. C. C. Wadsworth are in charge of the programs.

It was announced that the annual conference convention will be held at Martins Ferry Sept. 20 and 21. The program included two piano selections by Lynn Decker, and a demonstration entitled "New Deal In Programs" by Mrs. F. B. Wrisley, Mrs. Lincoln and Mrs. James. A fellowship supper followed.

The General Aid also met at the church yesterday with Mrs. George Hout supervising the devotional period, and Mrs. E. G. Corwin installing the new officers for the coming year Annual reports of the six circles were given.

Mrs. C. A. Crawford is president; Mrs. Place, vice-pesident; Mrs. Glenn Griswold, secretary; Mrs. D. L. Divelbiss, financial secretary, and Mrs. Guy Lautsbaugh, treasurer. The circle presidents are Mrs. Samuel Little, one; Mrs. Blaine Johnson, two; Mrs. Otis Ward, three; Mrs. Divelbiss, four, Mrs. Fred Nixon, five; and Mrs. Olan La Rue, six.

Several of the circles of the First Presbyterian church were also in session. Mrs. J. W. Leistensnider, 87 Greenwood avenue, entertained Circle Two with Mrs. C. V. Baker and Mrs. R. M. Rice assisting. Plans for future meetings were discussed when Mrs. Ruth Domer presided over the business session. The group sewed for welfare, and the next meeting will be with the Misses Douglass, Baldwin avenue, Oct. 5.

A dessert-luncheon was served to 23 members of the Circle Four at the church with Mrs. George Fox in charge. Mrs. C. C. Secrist, Mrs. Robert Gressmer, and Mrs. Ida Booze assisted, and the devotions were led by Mrs. John Cook. The next meeting will be Oct. 5 at the home of Mrs. Allen Bond.

Members of Circle Five met at the home of Mrs. B. M. Banks, 487 Forest avenue. Mrs. M. L. Smith was the associate hostess. Devotions were in charge of Mrs. H. L. Creveling. During the afternoon's program Mrs. Carl Russell gave a talk on "The Origin of Some Famous Hymns." She was assisted by Mrs. C. O. Anglin, who sang a number of the songs, and the entire group joined in some of the singing The hostesses served refreshments at the close of the afternoon Mrs. Edwin L. Balyeat will have the meeting of Oct. 5 at her home on Rowland avenue, assisted by Mrs. Charles A. Kuntz.

There were 17 members of Circle One present at the home of Mrs. Ernest Ihrig, 31 Maple street, yesterday when Mrs. Carolyn Cameron conducted the meeting during which plans for future events were discussed. Mrs. A. B. M. White and Mrs. Frank Culp were associate hostesses. The next meeting will be a luncheon at the home of Mrs W R. King, guild president, on Edgewood road, Oct 5.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

THE NEWS today seems to be quite diversified—with returning vacationers . . . visitors to the city . . . and folks leaving for school or their jobs

Evidently Louis Bromfield's Malabar farm has quite an appeal for Dr. Marion Douglass of Cleveland. . . . He was there last Saturday for the reunion of the Mansfield high class of 1914—of which he was a member. . . . And he came down again last night, planning to stay for about a week, when he will return to Cleveland, where he will give a series of lectures at the Western Reserve Medical school and teach a graduate course in gynecology and obstetrics.

Martha Louise Thompson has just returned to Urbana to resume her teaching activities in the high school there. . . . She teaches physical education and, as you probably know, was secretary to Recreational Director Al Fendrick and supervisor of playgrounds here this summer. . . . This will be Mary Louise's third year of teaching at Urbana. . . . She is a graduate of Mt. Union college, where she was a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

Another departing Mansfielder is Vangelene Cook, who left today for New York City. . . . She plans to enter the school of retailing at New York university—and do part time work at some of the larger department stores there in connection with her course of study. . . . Vangelene, who's a graduate of Denison university, has been teaching school in Lucas for the past several years.

* * *

IF DOROTHY YAUGER seems to be especially pleasant with a large beaming smile these days, the reason is that she's a proud new aunt. . . . Her brother-in-law and sister (whom you all remember as Peggy Yauger), Dr. and Mrs. Michael Holmes of Ft Moultrie, Ga., are the proud parents of a baby daughter, Patricia—born last month Patricia weighed all of eight and one-half pounds.

Vows Exchanged In Cleveland On Last August Day

Mr and Mrs. Charles Heldenbrand, R. D. 5, announced today the marriage of their daughter, Doris, of Cleveland Heights to Rev. John Randolph of Detroit, Mich. The wedding was solemnized at the First Friends church in Cleveland Aug. 31 at 3:30 p. m. Rev. Walter R Williams, pastor of the church, officiated.

Miss Heldenbrand wore a white lace princess style gown with a shoulder length veil and carried a white rose bouquet. She was attended by Miss Frances Phillips who wore a rose taffeta and carried pink roses. James Touch was best man.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Schonenberg in Cleveland Heights. Rev. and Mrs. Randolph will visit her parents and her sister, Catherine, in Mansfield next week, before leaving for Richmond, Ind., where he will accept the pastorate of the Friend's church

Both Rev and Mrs Randolph attended the Cleveland Bible college, and he was ordained there this past year

Cleveland Zontians Will Attend Tea At Leppo's

Members of the Cleveland Zonta club will be guests tomorrow afternoon at a high tea to be given at the Edgewood road home of Miss Edith Leppo, a member of the organization. Miss Leppo, who is chairman of the inter-city committee of the business and professional women's organization, is arranging a Chinese motif for the social function.

Jane Williams, member of The News-Journal staff will speak. Cleveland guests expected at the party are Miss Helen Allyn, feature writer for the Cleveland Press, who exchanged jobs with Mrs. Williams and worked in Mansfield a year ago, Miss Helen Kodet, president of the Cleveland Railway Business Women's association, and Miss Ida Preston, Zontion president.

VARIETY HIGH POINT OF ENTERTAINMENT

Everything From World Premiere to Table of Bridge Offered for Amusement of Mansfield Residents.

WHAT'S going on in Mansfield these days? Well plenty to keep everybody busy. Everything from the world's premiere of "The Rains Came" tonight to a table of bridge is being offered, and we're here to tell you about some of the events. Yesterday noon 11 members and two guests, Mrs. Ed Brunner, Canton, and Miss Esther Zerby of the W. B. A. Pioneer club No. 315 met at North Lake park for a covered-dish dinner.

A routine business meeting followed by a social hour concluded the session. The next meeting will be Oct. 5 at the home of Mrs. Fred Ammeter, Lexington avenue road.

When members of the Learn-a-Stitch club met at the home of Mrs Arthur Rice on Central avenue yesterday, they formulated plans for a family picnic to be held at the home of Mrs. Nick Blocker on McCready road in the near future. Fancy work and contests were diversions of yesterday afternoon, and Mrs. Stephen Konves won the prize. Mrs. Martin Hoffman has invited the group to her home on Spring street for the next regular meeting, Oct. 5.

Miss Josephine Keith of Toledo, Mrs. Russell Humbert of Epworth, and Mrs. Robert Keith were guests for a meeting of the Thursday Mother's club held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Boyd Keith on West Fifth street.

The affair was a covered-dish luncheon, and the club president, Mrs. J. C. Brant, was in charge of the business. Mrs. John Pierce will entertain with a dessert-luncheon at her home, 605 West Third street, on Oct. 5.

Pinochle was in play at two tables yesterday afternoon when Mrs. J. W. Peyton entertained members of the Tip-Top club at her home, 571 South Main street. Score prizes were won by Mrs. Frank Heeley, Mrs. Clyde Smith, and the hostess. Mrs. William Gresmer will have the next meeting, Sept. 21, at her home on Louise avenue.

Hallabrin Figures In Schmidt's Plans

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

TODAY'S announcement that the hard-hitting Hank Edwards and a couple of other Braves have been recalled by the Springfield, O., club of the league did not come as a surprise.

It was no secret that Edwards would be advanced in the Cleveland Indians' farm system as his performance this year establishes him as the stand-out player in the league

Mansfield fans were not startled to learn that the Springfield club has also exercised their options on Shortstop Steve Gromek and Delbert Leslie.

However, the chances of Gromek and Leslie remaining with the Mid-Atlantic Indians next season are more remote than in the case of Edwards

The Ohio State league has never boasted of a player of the caliber of Edwards, who would have brought a fancy price on the market had his contract been owned outright by Mansfield.

Gromek and Leslie are two of the more promising youngsters in the league, but another year in this class of ball probably would benefit them more than benchwarming stints in leagues of higher classification.

So there still is a possibility of Gromek and Leslie returning to the wigwam We hope so, at least

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

There'll be a lot of arguments pro and con on the Ohio State league all-star team selections announced yesterday. This department agrees with the majority of the choices, but if "Spotsy" Spartichino wasn't the best catcher in the league and Steve Gromek the No. 1 shortstop, then we've been mistaken for a long, long time.

MANSFIELD AFFILIATION WITH INDIANS ASSURED

ALTHOUGH the Cleveland Indians are reducing their Class D farm holdings, Mansfield can remain in the chain if it desires, it was learned today

Whether Norman Cohen and his associates care to continue relations with the Indians through the Springfield club remains a secret, but it is likely that they will resume relations if they operate a club in Mansfield again next year

Cohen has not definitely decided to return to Mansfield due to poor patronage, but the cities that he has in mind as prospective sites have not been divulged.

Please, Don't Weep.

According to Associated Press dispatches from South Bend the fighting Irish of Notre Dame will go into the football wars this fall without six members of 1938's line but it's a little too early to weep over Coach Elmer Layden's plight

Layden himself isn't shedding any tears He's taking it easy on a fishing trip in Wisconsin, resting up for the arduous task ahead—to match or improve last year's record when Notre Dame won eight games on a tough nine-game schedule.

By JIM EMERSON, United Press Sports Writer.

COLUMBUS—"I think the Ohio State team this fall will be better than last year"

The subject was football and the speaker was NOT a member of the Ohio State publicity staff. He was Francis Schmidt, the headman of Buckeye football himself.

But lest listeners might conclude hastily that he expects the Bucks to have an undefeated season or even win the Big Ten title, Herr Schmidt qualified his first forecast in a big way.

"Yes, this year's squad can be a good one if the boys want it to be but they'll have to be good to get anywhere with that tough schedule. All our opponents should be stronger than last year."

Critical Once-Over.

With the official opening of the practice season only two days away, Schmidt sat in the coolness of his front porch and graciously gave Ohio State gridiron prospects a critical once-over

Hallabrin

Schmidt admits his material won't lack for quantity with some 20 lettermen on hand in a squad of 60 and the quality shouldn't be the worst in the country, either.

For the four backfield jobs, he even goes so far as to say, "there's a lot of material there."

Co-Captain Mike Kabealo is the only major loss from the 1938 ball-toting corps and Schmidt expects valuable reinforcements from the return of jarring Johnny Rabb, Akron, and Howard Wedebrook, Portsmouth

"Rabb is still a question mark until his trick knee undergoes scrimmage but the doctors say he'll be as good as ever," Schmidt said "He'll probably be a good spurt runner at either left halfback or fullback to put in the game when the other fellows are tired"

After brilliant seasons in 1936 and 1937, Rabb was out all last fall with a knee injury. Wedebrook, best punter on the squad, also was missing last year and Schmidt believes his return will improve the Buckeye kicking.

"We kicked them far enough last fall but they went into the hands of the other guy for good returns We hope to get some out-of-bounds kicks this year," Schmidt asserted

There should be nothing wrong with the passing, either, with such bull-s-eye tossers as Don Scott, Canton, Jim Sexton, Middletown, Dick Fisher, Columbiana; and Jim Langhurst, Willard, available

"Scott seems to have found himself again at quarterback," Schmidt observed "He doesn't have to do so much running there he can use his passing and blocking talents to advantage"

Schmidt said that Fisher, a triple-threat sophomore with speed to burn, "may surprise us" before the season is far advanced. He also likes John Hallabrin, a stocky, hard-driving first year fullback from Mansfield

Eligibility Indefinite.

The line problem is the biggest doubt of 1939 success Two tackles, an end and a guard must be replaced and capable reserves developed On the basis of spring showings however. Schmidt believes the 1939 forwards will be faster and more agile than their immediate predecessors.

"Our tackles should be faster and the ends no poorer," he summarized. The leather-faced Buckeye coach would not commit himself on any selection of regulars but he gave the impression that Charley Maag, a converted center from Sandusky, and Jim Daniell, a snappy sophomore from Mt Lebanon Pa will be mighty difficult to dislodge at the tackle spots

Schmidt also was "high" on Esco Sarkkinen, the Fairport, O., blond who blossomed into a fast, smart end last season Sarkkinen probably will be used on end-around ball-carrying plays.

Among the newcomers, Schmidt saved special mention for Jack Stephenson, tackle from Marion; Thornton Fixon, tackle from Toledo; Ed Bruckner, 193-pound guard from Sandusky, Bill Bell, center from Steubenville, and Charley Anderson, end from Massillon.

As for the opposition, Schmidt saw nothing but champions in the path of the Bucks this fall. He believes Northwestern, Minnesota, Michigan and Purdue are the Big Ten favorites and the Bucks meet all but Purdue. Cornell, the Major Ohio State Intersectional opponent this fall, is touted as the eastern champion and Missouri, the other non-conference foe, as the big six champion "so it looks like plenty tough going for us," concluded Schmidt.

Bellville Gridiron Hopes Up

Coach Royd Hodges Has Eight Veterans Ready for 1939 Campaign Opening Next Week.

By CHARLES MARTIN

THERE may be some who doubt whether the 1939 football edition at Bellville high will stack up with last fall's great machine—but they don't go broadcasting their thoughts in the neighboring city

For down in Bellville are rabid fans who believe that the new team has a chance of even surpassing the spectacular record last year's squad scribbled into the record book

Whether the club will equal the feats accomplished by that club is a question, but prospects are bright—providing the injury jinx doesn't hit the front line ranks.

Coach Royd Hodges, who has eight veterans available for duty, is sending his proteges through daily workouts to round them into top shape for the season's opener with Centerburg Sept. 15.

The new team, which will be led by Co-Captains Bill Martin and Howard Hamilton, will have to step on it to come near the brilliant mark set by the 1938 Last year the club mowed down the opposition with ease and chalked up seven straight victories before dropping a 13 to 6 decision to the Madison high Rams.

Bellville faces a tough eight-game assignment this fall, and at present not a one of them appears to be a set-up Coach Hodges expects plenty of trouble from Centerburg.

When Centerburg met the Blue Jays last fall its goal line had not been crossed, but Bellville marked up a one-sided 31 to 6 victory. It was the only time the losers' pay dirt was invaded all season, and Centerburg will be out to even accounts

With Martin, a lanky end, and Hamilton, one of the sparkplugs of the 1938 backfield, to lead the way, Mentor Hodges still faces a difficult task in filling the positions vacated by the graduation of Balliett and Russ Sheriff and several seasoned linesmen

In the backfield he will have Donald Palm, a standout passer from last fall, Clinton Dill and Richard Keiser. Dill is a halfback and Keiser is expected to hold down the fullback post.

On the forward wall in addition to Martin will be Russ Leedy, another veteran end, Raymond Baldwin and Eugene Seidner at tackle, Charles Kauf and Arthur Ruhl, guards, and either Martin Hamilton or Don Minnie at center. Seidner is a newcomer, who formerly played at Loudonville high school.

A squad of 33 players is working out under the watchful eye of Coach Hodges and several of the newscomers may press the above named group for a place on the starting eleven.

After tackling Centerburg, the Blue Jays have an open date on Sept. 22, but swing back into action by invading Fredericktown on Sept. 29. The schedule follows.

Sept. 15—Centerburg
Sept. 22—Open.
Sept. 29—At Fredericktown.
Oct. 6—At Loudonville.
Oct. 13—Mt. Gilead.
Oct. 20—At Sunbury.
Oct 27—Ashley.
Nov. 3—At Madison.
Nov. 11—Butler.

Hi-Speeds, Parkmen Meet In Twin Bill

Manager Earl Herrick's Mansfield Hi-Speeds and the Liberty park baseball team tangle in a twin bill at Liberty park Sunday. The opening game will start at 1 p m. The doubleheader is the first two games of a scheduled three-game playoff between the two aggregations

Don Dudley of the Hi-Speeds and Bill Knackstedt, who clashed in a pitchers' duel recently when the clubs battled to a 2-all tie in an eight-inning game, will be the opposing moundsmen in the first setto. Petey Beer, and Pete Keiser of the Parkmen, are scheduled to hurl the night cap.

MILLER HITS HOMER AS DAIRYS TRIP RED BIRDS

The Isaly Dairy softball team defeated the Red Birds, 5 to 1, in a six-inning contest at Tappan field yesterday. The Red Birds gained the advantage when they tallied their lone marker in the second, but the Dairys took command of the situation in the third when Joe Miller hit a home run with the bases loaded. Miller's clout was the only extra-base hit of the game.

Mossor, Maloney Slated to Face Lima in Twin Bill; Lose Two at Findlay.

TONIGHT will mark a bunch of "lasts" for the Mansfield Braves, who, incidentally, are also last in the Ohio State league.

The twin bill, on schedule at 7:45 p. m., will be the last bargain bill of the season, the last "Ladies' Night" and the last night game.

Manager Dewey Stover's men, who conclude their hectic campaign on the home lot Sunday against Tiffin, meet the Lima Pandas at the Fairground tonight

Definitely out of the Ohio title picture, the Braves are virtually eliminated from a possible chance to reach fifth place, too.

The only chance they have to gain a share of the fifth notch is to win all of their remaining games while the Pandas drop all of their tilts

In addition to this being "Ladies Night," the games tonight will mark "The News-Journal Night," and one of the largest crowds of the season is expected despite the low position of the Braves.

Fans bearing the coupon printed elsewhere on this page will be admitted to tonight's games for 15 cents.

The Braves dropped their fourth straight game to the pesky title-bound Oilers in Findlay last night, and the two games, in addition to wrecking whatever hopes Mansfield nursed for a fifth-place finish, virtually cinched the pennant for Findlay.

Winning 3 to 2 and 25 to 1 (Wow!) over Mansfield last night, Findlay today holds a two and a half game edge over the second-place Fremont Green Sox.

For the second time in as many nights, Manager Grover Hartley added insult to injury by using only one pitcher for each doubleheader Wednesday night Barbey Fletcher hurled both ends of the twin bill here, and Lefty Prussing turned the trick last night.

Bob Schremser gave up only five hits in the first game, but lost 3 to 2 when his teammates were unable to do anything with six blows.

The afterpiece proved to be the wildest game involving the Braves this year. The score of 25 to 1 should convince you of that fact

Del Leslie was the starting pitcher, but he left the game in the third after the Oilers had tallied nine times. A pitching shortage made it necessary for Stover to try Shortstop Jack Weiler, and the Oilers put 11 runs across in the fourth.

Big Hank Edwards finished the game, and although he gave up five runs in the fifth, he did better than any of his predecessors by blanking the Oilers in the sixth.

Of course, there is always the possibility that the Oilers might have been slightly exhausted in the sixth

Leon Maloney and Lefty Mossor are expected to get the call against the Pandas tonight.

Joe McCarthy's Convinced His Yankees Will Win Flag

Pearson Turns Back Red Sox, 5-2, to Enable New York to Increase Lead to 16½ Games.

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer.

IT TOOK all summer to do it, but Marse Joe McCarthy finally is convinced his New York Yankees are a shoo-in for their fourth consecutive American league pennant.

With a 16½ game lead over the second-place Boston Red Sox, the Yanks are due to clinch their championship within a few days.

The signal that McCarthy had conceded himself the flag, after manfully resisting all these weeks, came yesterday as an echo of New York's 5-2 conquest of the Red Sox.

With Rookie Ted Williams out of the lineup because of a bruised hand, the Red Sox were held to three hits by Monte Pearson and Oral Hildebrand and only got their two runs when Pearson went wild in the fourth and walked four men.

Unlike the smooth-rolling Yanks, the Cincinnati Reds again were quavering in front of the National league.

For the fourth time in three days they were forced into extra innings yesterday, and finally dropped an 8-7 decision to the Pittsburgh Pirates. Big Ernie Lombardi got two home runs and a single for the lost cause, but the Reds were outhit 15-6.

Cincinnati's defeat coupled with the St. Louis Cardinals' 4-2 ten-inning victory over the Chicago Cubs cut the margin between first and second place to 4½ games.

Spoiling ceremonies marking Manager Gabby Hartnett's catching of his 1,727th game for an all-time major league record, the Cubs made four errors and finally gave the game to St. Louis when Pitcher Bill Lee made a three-base boner on Enos (Country) Slaughter's bounder in the tenth.

The Boston Bees turned the tables on the New York Giants 4-3, coming from behind in the ninth with four hits off Carl Hubbell and an error by Harry Danning. The Brooklyn Dodgers and Phillies were idle.

The Chicago White Sox swept their St. Louis stand with a double battering of the Browns, 8-4 and 11-4, to reduce the distance to second place in the American league to two games.

* * *

Five-hit pitching by Ken Chase brought the Washington Senators a 10-1 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics and the Cleveland Indians captured a slugfest from the Detroit Tigers, 9-8. Hank Greenberg hit his 26th and 27th home runs and Roy Cullenbine got another for the Tigers, but Hal Trosky offset these to good effect with four hits, including his 24th circuit clout.

This Foursome Gave Possum Run Gallery Thrill

* * * * *

Guldahl Shoots 68 as He Shows How to Play Championship Golf

Former U. S. Open King Leads Scoring In Possum Run Exhibition With Malaska Next Low.

BY OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

A FINE example of how this game of golf should be played was presented by Ralph Guldahl at the Possum Run layout yesterday.

Better scores have been shot at "Irish" McGee's course, but the former U. S. Open champion did fairly well for a fellow who had never seen the golf plant until an hour before he teed off.

Guldahl fashioned a nifty 68 as he annexed medal honors in the exhibition foursome which included Joe Mayer, Vin Malaska and Joe Kasper. His two 34's included six "birdies" and 10 pars.

The only trouble encountered by the likable Guldahl came on No. 5, the easiest par 5 on the course, and No. 9. Unacquainted with the hardness of the sand in the No. 5 trap, the Texan's blast merely spilled the ball to the edge. He then missed a short putt for a "bogey" six.

Guldahl, who ran into putting difficulties in a number of holes, found the sloping No. 9 green too tricky, and finished a five after his second shot hit into the bank in front of the mound.

* * *

Not one of the longer drivers in the game, Guldahl was consistently accurate off the tee, and seldom missed the greens with his second shots.

One of the outstanding features of Guldahl's game is his ability to stay out of the rough. On only two occasions during the 18 holes of play, did his ball wander from the fairways, and one of those was a tremendous drive on No. 12 (a dog-leg hole) that carried too far.

While Guldahl was the big attraction, the gallery of a couple of hundred onlookers also saw some good golf in the Mansfielders' games. Malaska, an underrated golfer in this man's town, we'll now agree, was next to Guldahl in the scoring with 36-36-72. Mayer came back with a 35 after a bad first nine to score a 73. Kasper followed with 77.

Kasper, for instance, started out like a ball of fire, and kept pace with Guldahl until No. 6 when trouble forced him to take a six. One of the thing's yesterday's spectators will remember about Kasper was his first tee shot which he planted on the No. 1 green.

Mayer also proved that he could wield a wood on No. 8 when he sent his tee shot to the green.

But, talking about drives, you should have seen Guldahl's wood shot on 246-yard No. 11, the one where the green is located on top of a knoll. Guldahl's drive nearly split the pin and stopped dead on the edge of the green.

Malaska, however, was more consistant than either Mayer or Kasper. A frightful six on No. 9 broke a string of pars and "birdies." His only trouble on the incoming nine was experienced on No. 16 when his first putt skidded off the rim to force him to take a five.

* * *

As this was probably the first time that any of the Mansfield golfers appeared before a gallery of high order.

the type of games they played was

But there were few in the gallery who were not confident that Guldahl could better his 68 if offered another chance to play the course today.

There is no doubt in the minds of the spectators that Guldahl has mastered this game of golf.

Sports' 2701 High On Opening Night

LEO YUNCKER'S Sports flashed mid-season form on the opening night of bowling in the Commercial B league at the Meder alleys last night.

Shooting a 2701 total with a big 998 game, the Sports, led by Yuncker's 576 and Jim Wills' 573, swept their series with the Ira Kochheiser Athletic Supplies.

The only other team to gain a sweep last night was the Heilman Grocers, who took three tilts from Ohio Public Service. Altman led the Grocers with a 599, which included a spectacular 252.

In the other matches, the Shelby Cycles toppled the Southern Hotel in two games, the Satterlee Restaurants won two from the Mansfield Printers, and the Mansfield Rugs added two at the expense of Meder Recreation.

Hallabrin Figures In Schmidt's Plans

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

TODAY'S announcement that the hard-hitting Hank Edwards and a couple of other Braves have been recalled by the Springfield, O., club of the league did not come as a surprise.

It was no secret that Edwards would be advanced in the Cleveland Indians' farm system as his performance this year establishes him as the stand-out player in the league.

Mansfield fans were not startled to learn that the Springfield club has also exercised their options on Shortstop Steve Gromek and Delbert Leslie.

However, the chances of Gromek and Leslie remaining with the Mid-Atlantic Indians next season are more remote than in the case of Edwards.

The Ohio State league has never boasted of a player of the caliber of Edwards, who would have brought a fancy price on the market had his contract been owned outright by Mansfield.

Gromek and Leslie are two of the more promising youngsters in the league, but another year in this class of ball probably would benefit them more than benchwarming stints in leagues of higher classification.

So there still is a possibility of Gromek and Leslie returning to the wigwam. We hope so, at least.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

There'll be a lot of arguments pro and con on the Ohio State league all-star team selections announced yesterday. This department agrees with the majority of the choices, but if "Spotsy" Spartichino wasn't the best catcher in the league and Steve Gromek the No. 1 shortstop, then we've been mistaken for a long, long time.

MANSFIELD AFFILIATION WITH INDIANS ASSURED

ALTHOUGH the Cleveland Indians are reducing their Class D farm holdings, Mansfield can remain in the chain if it desires, it was learned today.

Whether Norman Cohen and his associates care to continue relations with the Indians through the Springfield club remains a secret, but it is likely that they will resume relations if they operate a club in Mansfield again next year.

Cohen has not definitely decided to return to Mansfield due to poor patronage, but the cities that he has in mind as prospective sites have not been divulged.

Please, Don't Weep.

According to Associated Press dispatches from South Bend, the fighting Irish of Notre Dame will go into the football wars this fall without six members of 1938's line, but it's a little too early to weep over Coach Elmer Layden's plight.

Layden himself isn't shedding any tears. He's taking it easy on a fishing trip in Wisconsin, resting up for the arduous task ahead—to match or improve last year's record when Notre Dame won eight games on a tough nine-game schedule.

Capt. John Kelly at right end is the only member of the line returning, but there is at least one letterman for every position on the team and a total of 16 letter winners back on the Irish squad.

* * *

JUST SHORTS—Charles Brickley, jr., son of Harvard's gridiron immortal, will enter Yale . . . A New York attorney filed suit this week charging that a race horse he bought was "of unsound eye and refused to run a straight course on any track (that's probably the horse we've been betting on) . . . It is believed that Lou Boudreau, Cleveland infielder, will stay in the majors despite a comparatively weak throwing arm.

Ohio State Mentor Rates Mansfield Sophomore Among Leading Candidates.

By JIM EMERSON, United Press Sports Writer.

COLUMBUS—"I think the Ohio State team this fall will be better than last year."

The subject was football and the speaker was NOT a member of the Ohio State publicity staff. He was Francis Schmidt, the headman of Buckeye football himself.

But lest listeners might conclude hastily that he expects the Bucks to have an undefeated season or even win the Big Ten title, Herr Schmidt qualified his first forecast in a big way.

"Yes, this year's squad can be a good one if the boys want it to be but they'll have to be good to get anywhere with that tough schedule. All our opponents should be stronger than last year."

Critical Once-Over.

With the official opening of the practice season only two days away, Schmidt sat in the coolness of his front porch and graciously gave Ohio State gridiron prospects a critical once-over.

Hallabrin

Schmidt admits his material won't lack for quantity with some 20 lettermen on hand in a squad of 60 and the quality shouldn't be the worst in the country, either.

For the four backfield jobs, he even goes so far as to say, "there's a lot of material there."

Co-Captain Mike Kabealo is the only major loss from the 1938 ball-toting corps and Schmidt expects valuable reinforcements from the return of jarring Johnny Rabb, Akron, and Howard Wedebrook, Portsmouth.

"Rabb is still a question mark until his trick knee undergoes scrimmage but the doctors say he'll be as good as ever," Schmidt said. "He'll probably be a good spurt runner at either left halfback or fullback to put in the game when the other fellows are tired."

After brilliant seasons in 1936 and 1937, Rabb was out all last fall with a knee injury. Wedebrook, best punter on the squad, also was missing last year and Schmidt believes his return will improve the Buckeye kicking.

"We kicked them far enough last fall but they went into the hands of the other guy for good returns. We hope to get some out-of-bounds kicks this year," Schmidt asserted.

There should be nothing wrong with the passing, either, with such bull-s-eye tossers as Don Scott, Canton; Jim Sexton, Middletown; Dick Fisher, Columbiana; and Jim Langhurst, Willard, available.

"Scott seems to have found himself again at quarterback," Schmidt observed. "He doesn't have to do so much running there he can use his passing and blocking talents to advantage."

Schmidt said that Fisher, a triple-threat sophomore with speed to burn, "may surprise us" before the season is far advanced. He also likes John Hallabrin, a stocky, hard-driving first year fullback from Mansfield.

Eligibility Indefinite.

The line problem is the biggest doubt of 1939 success. Two tackles, an end and a guard must be replaced and capable reserves developed. On the basis of spring showings, however, Schmidt believes the 1939 forwards will be faster and more agile than their immediate predecessors.

"Our tackles should be faster and the ends no poorer," he summarized. The leather-faced Buckeye coach would not commit himself on any selection of regulars but he gave the impression that Charley Maag, a converted center from Sandusky, and Jim Daniell, a snappy sophomore from Mt. Lebanon, Pa., will be mighty difficult to dislodge at the tackle spots.

Schmidt also was "high" on Esco Sarkkinen, the Fairport, O., blond who blossomed into a fast, smart end last season. Sarkkinen probably will be used on end-around ball-carrying plays.

Among the newcomers, Schmidt saved special mention for Jack Stephenson, tackle from Marion; Thornton Fixon, tackle from Toledo; Ed Bruckner, 193-pound guard from Sandusky, Bill Bell, center from Steubenville, and Charley Anderson, end from Massillon.

As for the opposition, Schmidt saw nothing but champions in the path of the Bucks this fall. He believes Northwestern, Minnesota, Michigan and Purdue are the Big Ten favorites and the Bucks meet all but Purdue. Cornell, the Major Ohio State Intersectional opponent this fall, is touted as the eastern champion and Missouri, the other non-conference foe, as the big six champion "so it looks like plenty tough going for us," concluded Schmidt.

Bellville Gridiron Hopes Up

Mossor, Maloney Slated to Face Lima in Twin Bill; Lose Two at Findlay.

TONIGHT will mark a bunch of "lasts" for the Mansfield Braves, who, incidentally, are also last in the Ohio State league.

The twin bill, on schedule at 7:45 p. m., will be the last bargain bill of the season, the last "Ladies' Night" and the last night game.

Definitely out of the Ohio title picture, the Braves are virtually eliminated from a possible chance to reach fifth place, too.

The only chance they have to gain a share of the fifth notch is to win all of their remaining games while the Pandas drop all of their tilts.

In addition to this being "Ladies Night," the games tonight will mark "The News-Journal Night," and one of the largest crowds of the season is expected despite the low position of the Braves.

Fans bearing the coupon printed elsewhere on this page will be admitted to tonight's games for 15 cents.

The Braves dropped their fourth straight game to the pesky title-bound Oilers in Findlay last night, and the two games, in addition to wrecking whatever hopes Mansfield nursed for a fifth-place finish, virtually cinched the pennant for Findlay.

Winning 3 to 2 and 25 to 1 (Wow!) over Mansfield last night, Findlay today holds a two and a half game edge over the second-place Fremont Green Sox.

For the second time in as many nights, Manager Grover Hartley added insult to injury by using only one pitcher for each doubleheader. Wednesday night Barbey Fletcher hurled both ends of the twin bill here, and Lefty Prussing turned the trick last night.

Bob Schremser gave up only five hits in the first game, but lost 3 to 2 when his teammates were unable to do anything with six blows.

The afterpiece proved to be the wildest game involving the Braves this year. The score of 25 to 1 should convince you of that fact.

Del Leslie was the starting pitcher, but he left the game in the third after the Oilers had tallied nine times. A pitching shortage made it necessary for Stover to try Shortstop Jack Weiler, and the Oilers put 11 runs across in the fourth.

Big Hank Edwards finished the game, and although he gave up five runs in the fifth, he did better than any of his predecessors by blanking the Oilers in the sixth.

Of course, there is always the possibility that the Oilers might have been slightly exhausted in the sixth.

Coach Royd Hodges Has Eight Veterans Ready for 1939 Campaign Opening Next Week.

By CHARLES MARTIN

THERE may be some who doubt whether the 1939 football edition at Bellville high will stack up with last fall's great machine—but they don't go broadcasting their thoughts in the neighboring city.

For down in Bellville are rabid fans who believe that the new team has a chance of even surpassing the spectacular record last year's squad scribbled into the record book.

Whether the club will equal the feats accomplished by that club is a question, but prospects are bright—providing the injury jinx doesn't hit the front line ranks.

Coach Royd Hodges, who has eight veterans available for duty, is sending his proteges through daily workouts to round them into top shape for the season's opener with Centerburg Sept. 15.

The new team, which will be led by Co-Captains Bill Martin and Howard Hamilton, will have to step on it to come near the brilliant mark set by the 1938. Last year the club mowed down the opposition with ease and chalked up seven straight victories before dropping a 13 to 6 decision to the Madison high Rams.

Bellville faces a tough eight-game assignment this fall, and at present not a one of them appears to be a set-up. Coach Hodges expects plenty of trouble from Centerburg.

When Centerburg met the Blue Jays last fall its goal line had not been crossed, but Bellville marked up a one-sided 31 to 6 victory. It was the only time the losers' pay dirt was invaded all season, and Centerburg will be out to even accounts.

With Martin, a lanky end, and Hamilton, one of the sparkplugs of the 1938 backfield, to lead the way, Mentor Hodges still faces a difficult task in filling the positions vacated by the graduation of Balliett and Russ Sheriff and several seasoned linesmen.

In the backfield he will have Donald Palm, a standout passer from last fall, Clinton Dill and Richard Keiser. Dill is a halfback and Keiser is expected to hold down the fullback post.

On the forward wall in addition to Martin will be Russ Leedy, another veteran end, Raymond Baldwin and Eugene Seidner at tackle, Charles Kauf and Arthur Ruhl, guards, and either Martin Hamilton or Don Minnie at center. Seidner is a newcomer, who formerly played at Loudonville high school.

A squad of 33 players is working out under the watchful eye of Coach Hodges and several of the newscomers may press the above named group for a place on the starting eleven.

After tackling Centerburg, the Blue Jays have an open date on Sept. 22, but swing back into action by invading Fredericktown on Sept. 29. The schedule follows.

Sept. 15—Centerburg.
Sept. 22—Open.
Sept. 29—At Fredericktown.
Oct. 6—At Loudonville.
Oct. 13—Mt. Gilead.
Oct. 20—At Sunbury.
Oct. 27—Ashley.
Nov. 3—At Madison.
Nov. 11—Butler.

Hi-Speeds, Parkmen Meet In Twin Bill

Manager Earl Herrick's Mansfield Hi-Speeds and the Liberty park baseball team tangle in a twin bill at Liberty park Sunday. The opening game will start at 1 p. m. The doubleheader is the first two games of a scheduled three-game playoff between the two aggregations.

Don Dudley of the Hi-Speeds and Bill Knackstedt, who clashed in a pitchers' duel recently when the clubs battled to a 2-all tie in an eight-inning game, will be the opposing moundsmen in the first setto. Petey Beer, and Pete Keiser of the Parkmen, are scheduled to hurl the night cap.

MILLER HITS HOMER AS DAIRYS TRIP RED BIRDS

The Isaly Dairy softball team defeated the Red Birds, 5 to 1, in a six-inning contest at Tappan field yesterday. The Red Birds gained the advantage when they tallied their lone marker in the second, but the Dairys took command of the situation in the third when Joe Miller hit a home run with the bases loaded. Miller's clout was the only extra-base hit of the game.

Joe McCarthy's Convinced His Yankees Will Win Flag

Pearson Turns Back Red Sox, 5-2, to Enable New York to Increase Lead to 16½ Games.

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer.

IT TOOK all summer to do it, but Marse Joe McCarthy finally is convinced his New York Yankees are a shoo-in for their fourth consecutive American league pennant.

With a 16½ game lead over the second-place Boston Red Sox, the Yanks are due to clinch their championship within a few days.

The signal that McCarthy had conceded himself the flag, after manfully resisting all these weeks, came yesterday as an echo of New York's 5-2 conquest of the Red Sox.

With Rookie Ted Williams out of the lineup because of a bruised hand, the Red Sox were held to three hits by Monte Pearson and Oral Hildebrand and only got their two runs when Pearson went wild in the fourth and walked four men.

Unlike the smooth-rolling Yanks, the Cincinnati Reds again were quavering in front of the National league.

For the fourth time in three days they were forced into extra innings yesterday, and finally dropped an 8-7 decision to the Pittsburgh Pirates. Big Ernie Lombardi got two home runs and a single for the lost cause, but the Reds were outhit 15-6.

Cincinnati's defeat coupled with the St. Louis Cardinals' 4-2 ten-inning victory over the Chicago Cubs cut the margin between first and second place to 4½ games.

Spoiling ceremonies marking Manager Gabby Hartnett's catching of his 1,727th game for an all-time major league record, the Cubs made four errors and finally gave the game to St. Louis when Pitcher Bill Lee made a three-base boner on Enos (Country) Slaughter's bounder in the tenth.

The Boston Bees turned the tables on the New York Giants 4-3, coming from behind in the ninth with four hits off Carl Hubbell and an error by Harry Danning. The Brooklyn Dodgers and Phillies were idle.

The Chicago White Sox swept their St. Louis stand with a double battering of the Browns, 8-4 and 11-4, to reduce the distance to second place in the American league to two games.

* * *

Five-hit pitching by Ken Chase brought the Washington Senators a 10-1 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics and the Cleveland Indians captured a slugfest from the Detroit Tigers, 9-8. Hank Greenberg hit his 26th and 27th home runs and Roy Cullenbine got another for the Tigers, but Hal Trosky offset these to good effect with four hits, including his 24th circuit clout.

This Foursome Gave Possum Run Gallery Thrill

* * * * *

Former U. S. Open King Leads Scoring In Possum Run Exhibition With Malaska Next Low.

BY OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

A FINE example of how this game of golf should be played was presented by Ralph Guldahl at the Possum Run layout yesterday.

Better scores have been shot at "Irish" McGee's course, but the former U. S. Open champion did fairly well for a fellow who had never seen the golf plant until an hour before he teed off.

Guldahl fashioned a nifty 68 as he annexed medal honors in the exhibition foursome which included Joe Mayer, Vin Malaska and Joe Kasper. His two 34's included six "birdies" and 10 pars.

The only trouble encountered by the likable Guldahl came on No. 5, the easiest par 5 on the course, and No. 9. Unacquainted with the hardness of the sand in the No. 5 trap, the Texan's blast merely spilled the ball to the edge. He then missed a short putt for a "bogey" six.

Guldahl, who ran into putting difficulties in a number of holes, found the sloping No. 9 green too tricky, and finished a five after his second shot hit into the bank in front of the mound.

Not one of the longer drivers in the game, Guldahl was consistently accurate off the tee, and seldom missed the greens with his second shots.

One of the outstanding features of Guldahl's game is his ability to stay out of the rough. On only two occasions during the 18 holes of play, did his ball wander from the fairways, and one of those was a tremendous drive on No. 12 (a dog-leg hole) that carried too far.

While Guldahl was the big attraction, the gallery of a couple of hundred onlookers also saw some good golf in the Mansfielders' games. Malaska, an underrated golfer in this man's town, we'll now agree, was next to Guldahl in the scoring with 36-36-72. Mayer came back with a 35 after a bad first nine to score a 73. Kasper followed with 77.

Kasper, for instance, started out like a ball of fire, and kept pace with Guldahl until No. 6 when trouble forced him to take a six. One of the thing's yesterday's spectators will remember about Kasper was his first tee shot which he planted on the No. 1 green.

Mayer also proved that he could wield a wood on No. 8 when he sent his tee shot to the green.

But, talking about drives, you should have seen Guldahl's wood shot on 246-yard No. 11, the one where the green is located on top of a knoll. Guldahl's drive nearly split the pin and stopped dead on the edge of the green.

Malaska, however, was more consistant than either Mayer or Kasper. A frightful six on No. 9 broke a string of pars and "birdies." His only trouble on the incoming nine was experienced on No. 16 when his first putt skidded off the rim to force him to take a five.

* * *

As this was probably the first time that any of the Mansfield golfers appeared before a gallery, of high order.

the type of games they played was

But there were few in the gallery who were not confident that Guldahl could better his 68 if offered another chance to play the course today.

There is no doubt in the minds of the spectators that Guldahl has mastered this game of golf.

Sports' 2701 High On Opening Night

LEO YUNCKER'S Sports flashed mid-season form on the opening night of bowling in the Commercial B league at the Meder alleys last night.

Shooting a 2701 total with a big 998 game, the Sports, led by Yuncker's 576 and Jim Wills' 573, swept their series with the Ira Kochheiser Athletic Supplies.

The only other team to gain a sweep last night was the Heilman Grocers, who took three tilts from Ohio Public Service. Altman led the Grocers with a 599, which included a spectacular 252.

In the other matches, the Shelby Cycles toppled the Southern Hotel in two games, the Satterlee Restaurants won two from the Mansfield Printers, and the Mansfield Rugs added two at the expense of Meder Recreation.
